Kidnaped, Attacked; Escort Slain—Mrs. Marion Richards, 24-year-old Lowell mother, leaves Symmes-Arlington Hospital in Arlington today where she identified Russell P. Davis of Lowell as the man who murdered her escort, Edward Pare of Dracut, in a fight on a lonely Dracut road, and then kidnaped and ravished her. Davis later was found slumped in his car suffering two bullet wounds apparently self-inflicted. STORY ON PAGE 3

CAB Plane Ditching Probe Experts Here

Top experts of the Civil Aeronautics Board—armed with the statements of both the rescued and rescuers—today were well launched in a sweeping probe of the Bermuda Sky Queen's forced landing in mid-Atlantic.

Investigation of the Atlantic ditching, which was followed by an epic rescue of 69 persons by the Coast Guard, is expected to have a far-flung effect on all unscheduled air carriers now engaged in international operations.

What the probers already have discovered will not be disclosed until after the first public hearing, scheduled for Oct. 30 at New York's Hotel Lexington, it was announced by Edward E. Slattery, Jr., formerly of Dorchester, chief of information for CAB.

The probers, headed by Director George Gay of New York, include Harold G. Crowley of Winthrop, pioneer in New England aviation and hero of a number of rescues on icy Labrador wastes a decade ago; Robert Crisp and Robert Garrett; the latter two of Washington.

They were the first aboard the gallant Coast Guard cutter Bibb as it neared Boston. They talked to the passengers and crew of the downed sky liner and the heroic rescuers among the crew and officers of the Bibb.

FLYING BOAT EXPERT

Crowley was rushed here from Washington for the probe because of his vast experience in flying boats. He was perhaps the first to fly such craft in New England 25 years ago and has been actively engaged in flying both in peace and war ever since.

"We did not want Capt. Charles Martin of the Sky Queen and members of the flying boat's crew to do much talking," Crowley told reporters. "In fact, we advise them against talking because the plane they flew is very much under investigation."

Capt. Martin and six others of his crew have been ordered to appear at the New York hearing and will have a chance to tell their complete story at that time.

First facts to be determined are whether the craft was overloaded, had sufficient fuel and whether the pilot had adequate and accurate weather reports.

Meanwhile, Capt. Martin, who received hearty praise from the passengers he piloted and from Capt. Paul Cronk, skipper of the cutter Bibb, was in New York.

He and other members of his crew were flown there from Boston in a plane which also included I. Stewart Robertson, president of American International Airways, operator of the stricken plane.

At LaGuardia Field, Capt. Martin gave the Associated Press the following account of his landing in the North Atlantic, a landing which Capt. Cronk termed "incomparable."

"I was certain she would land all right. She was a good and sturdy plane. We had a sufficient reserve of gas when we left. The headwinds buffeted us and I decided we would not make the effort to go on to Gander, Newfoundland, and almost surely sacrifice the lives of all these people. So I set her down.

"My happiest thought is that when I set the plane down, waves were rising about 10 feet high.

"After we were taken aboard the Bibb, Capt. Cronk treated me and all of us like a father."

Crew members who flew here with Martin were First Officer Addison Thompson, Miami, Fla.; Second Officer John Shafer, of Miami; Chief Engineer Walter Yaramishyn, Philadelphia; Second Engineer Robert Hamilton, New York city; Purser William Penn, New York city, and Radio Operator Keith Woodmansee, Santa Monica, Cal.

Robertson said he had no comment now on the order of the Civil Aeronautics Board halting the company's operations. The sinking of the Bermuda Sky Queen, after the heroic rescue of its passengers by the Bibb's crew, leaves the company with four flying boats, he said.

Penn, commenting on seaworthiness of the plane, said:

"The ship stood a battering of 250 20-mm. cannon shells for approximately half an hour and even though burning and riddled with shells was reluctant to give up at last to the sea. It finally did give up but the component parts floated, and these had to be riddled and finally disposed of. This proves that a sea plane has its place over the ocean routes, much more than a land plane has."

First Officer Quinn said that he and eight mates tried to keep some semblance of order on the plane in the many hours that elapsed between the time it came down and rescue was effected.

He said it was necessary to "literally throw" adults and children from the plane

Crushed to Death In Downtown Lift

Crushed by an elevator which started to descend as he boarded it, Abraham Spiegelman, 40, of Almont st., Malden, father of two children, was killed instantly today in a Kneeland st. building. The elevator operator, Mrs. Helen Langhorn, 32, of Kennard ave., West End, was trapped for more than an hour with the victim's body in the lift before a fire rescue squad freed her. Suffering from shock, she was taken to City Hospital with one of her rescuers, Fireman William V. Flannery of East Fourth st., South Boston, who cut his eye in ripping open the elevator grating.

William V. Flannery

Spiegelman was carrying a heavy motor in his arms as he went to step into the elevator on the second floor. Mrs. Langhorn said that as she opened the door the car began to drop, adding:

"I tried to push him away and close the door. He misunderstood and tried to push his way into the car. He got caught."

DEFECT REPORTED

John Thomas, the building superintendent, said that shortly before the accident Mrs. Langhorn reported to him that a spring in the elevator's control handle had snapped and that she could not bring the car to a stop without manipulating the control with her fingers. Thomas said he reported the defect to an elevator company.

Firemen cut the roof of the car with acetylene torches, but were unable to free Mrs. Langhorn and were forced to rip out the side grating. The victim was an employe of the Debby Lou Co., Kneeland st.

Miss Placida Galdie, of Stark ave., Readville, who rode down from the fifth floor on a previous trip, reported the operator was unable to bring the car to a halt at the first floor and they descended to the basement.

Bootlegging Gems Charged to Navy

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 20 (AP)—A Newport jewelry shop owner said he is launching a nationwide campaign against what he termed Navy "bootlegging" in ships service stores products.

Joseph I. Aronson charged the Navy's central purchasing office at Brooklyn, N. Y., is guilty of "bootlegging" products not obtainable directly from the manufacturer, and in the Newport area there is indiscriminate selling. As a result of the alleged practices, Aronson said, private retailers have suffered a severe loss of business.

Hynes Calls on State To Boost Housing Aid

This city is "probably doing even a little more than it can actually afford to do" about the pressing problem of permanent veterans' housing "and it is doing enough on its own behalf to warrant more substantial help from the Commonwealth," Mayor Hynes said today.

His statement came in an address to the special Legislative commission on veterans' problems at a hearing held in the State House. The greatest need, he said, is for housing units to rent to veterans for about $50 a month.

The mayor recommended to the commission that it ask the Legislature to memorialize Congress to enact the Taft-Ellender-Wagner bill "or some other measure of a similar nature."

"Because the need is nationwide, because federal resources are greater than those of States or cities," he said, "and because the federal legislation is essential."

With or without federal aid, he added, the city will proceed with the construction of the South End housing project, stalled for several years along with the proposed South Boston project by the war and by legal technicalities involving the national government.

Both projects, part of a municipal $20,000,000 veterans' housing program, will cost an estimated $14,000,000. Together, they will house 1400 families.

Hynes urged the commission to propose that the State make available, starting in 1948, a total of $1,600,000 annually for a 10-year period from the Veterans' Services Fund. The total, $16,000,000, he said, was set aside last year by Gov. Bradford in an amendment to the Acts of 1946.

On that basis, the mayor concluded, "we could have $80,000,000 worth of housing started by municipalities during the next year."

New Haven Vote Shows Strike Trend

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 20 (AP)—A union official said today that on the basis of early voting returns there was "no question" but that the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen will call a strike Although between 4000 and 5000 are expected to vote, Hammill said he was confident the trend would continue and that the final count, to be completed late tomorrow, would show about 90 per cent in favor of a strike.

If this is the result, Hammill said a strike would be called within seven or eight days after completion of the tally.

The principal issue in the dispute is the Brotherhood's contention, denied by the railroad, that the New Haven refused to comply with a 1944 decision of the national railroad adjustment board concerning pay for Brotherhood members reporting for work more than 30 minutes before the leaving time of trains.

against the New Haven R. R.

With 431 votes counted, J. J. Hammill, general chairman of the Brotherhood for the New Haven System, said 94.7 per cent of the members were in favor of a strike.

Judge Flays, Frees Hotel Baby's Mother

Disturbed by the "cold and indifferent" attitude of Jean Frances Kirch, 22, Plainfield, N. J., to the 6-day-old girl baby she abandoned in a hotel here Friday, Judge Joseph E. Donovan placed the mother on probation for six months today with the warning she would be sent to women's reformatory if the child ever becomes a public charge anywhere in the country.

Neatly clad in a brown suit, the mother, her father, a Plainfield plumbing contractor, and police gathered for a conference at Judge Donovan's bench, where she calmly reiterated earlier requests that the child be offered for adoption.

COURT SCORES MOTHER

The attractive brunette had pleaded guilty to a charge of abandoning the infant last Saturday and had been bailed in $1000 by her father, George Kirch.

"Adopt, adopt, adopt" cried Judge Donovan. "For the life I can't understand how a girl can be so cold and indifferent to a little 6-day-old baby. She has no feeling for it. Well, she's going to take the baby back and I'll see to it that she doesn't leave the baby as a public charge of Massachusetts.

"I'm going to give her a suspended reformatory sentence on three conditions: she and the child are to return to New Jersey, she is to pay in full her doctor and hospital bills and she is to take it on herself that the child never becomes a public charge in any state, city or county."

His face flushed with the effort to control his rage, Judge Donovan thundered:

"Get out of the Commonwealth and go back to New Jersey and take the child with you. And if you violate your probation, we'll bring you back and you'll go to the reformatory. I'm going to hold you to the letter of the conditions."

With no show of emotion, the mother accepted the tongue-lashing and left the courtrom with her father to arrange for payment of her bills through the probation office.

The baby was born to her in Faulkner Hospital only a few hours after she called a doctor to tell him of her plight. At the hospital she gave her name as Mrs. John Kirch, saying her husband was in the Navy. Her family believed she had gone to Boston to attend school.

Slays Man, Kidnaps Girl, Shoots Himself

Edward Pare, 30, of Dracut, was stabbed to death early today and his trysting place companion, Mrs. Marion Richards, 24-year-old Lowell mother of two small children, was kidnaped, repeatedly ravished and forced to ride naked four hours with a mad murdered who stripped off his own clothing and once begged her to kill him. Less than three hours after the young mother staggered into her Central st. home, the man she named as the killer and kidnaper was near death from apparently self-inflicted rifle wounds in Lexington.

He was Russell P. Davis, 23, of Humphrey st., Lowell, husky former staff sergeant of the Army Air Forces, son of a widow. His father was a World War I soldier.

Davis was slumped on the front seat of his automobile, parked in Lowell st., bleeding from two bullet wounds under his heart. Beside him was a .22-caliber rifle from which the stock had been broken. In the car were two hunting knives, both sheathed, one blooded and bearing dirt, as though an attempt had been made to clean it by thrusting it in sod.

LIQUOR BOTTLES IN CAR

Police, who rushed Davis to Symmes-Arlington Hospital, also found a bix of shells in the car, as well as a wine and a liquor bottle.

The bullets had passed through Davis' body and lodged in the back seat. He wore a sport jacket under which there was neither shirt nor undershirt.

Mrs. Richards, hysterical at intervals from her ordeal, was taken to the hospital by Detective James F. Conniff of the State Police. Davis, who was on the border of death, had been given a blood transfusion. He lifted expressionless eyes to hers.

She had been raped six times. She identified Davis as her kidneper-ravisher and the killer of Pare, then was led away in a state of near collapse.

REMANDED WALLET

Pare died fighting to protect his companion. The parking spot killer came upon them at 1 a. m. while they sat in Pare's car at a secluded spot in Donahue rd., Dracut, not far from Pare's Gerrish ave. home.

At first they thought it was a holdup, for the intruder came out of the darkness carrying a gun and demanding Pare's wallet. Pare was swinging when he stepped from the car, but it was an uneven match with his taller, stronger and armed accoster.

The killer dropped the gun. Mrs. Richards seized it and entered the battle. Then she saw the flash of a knife and Pare went down, the slayer bending to look through his pockets.

The murderer quickly smashed the headlights of Pare's car, forced Mrs. Richards into his own after retrieving the gun and started on the mad ride through the night, a ride which took them over the New Hampshire line eventually.

The woman captive's ordeal of horror had only begun. Within five miles the kidnaper halted the car and ordered her to disrobe. When she pleaded, he snarled: "Take them off or I'll have to cut them off."

He had the gun at his knee. The gleaming downward stroke of the knife that had sunk into Pare, deep in his back, was still etched in the woman's mind. She obeyed her captor's order.

THREATENED TO KILL HER

As she took off her clothing he showered threats upon her, telling her if she didn't submit without a struggle he would kill her. Then, as the frantic woman prayed for another car to come by, he wrenched off his own clothing and forced his will upon her.

For half an hour she was forced to submit. The killer drove on again. At one point, after she had called him "Jimmy" in begging mercy, his violent attitude changed to weir calm tone and he said, "Call me Russell."

Then his ferocity returned and he halted the car on a stretch of road where there were no houses. Once more he attacked her.

In spite of her now hysterical condition, Mrs. Richards noted the name signs of several New Hampshire cities and towns, Manchester and Nashua for two, as the rapist drove on.

Finally, weak beyond protest against further mistreatment, she was taken back to her own doorstep, the $5 bill was crammed into her hand and she staggered into her home. She did have enough presence of mind to get the car's registration number as her kidnaper vanished.

He had boasted during the four-hour ride that Pare was "a fool" not to yield his wallet back at the scene of the killing.

Police believed the $5 bill he had pressed on Mrs. Richards was money from Pare's wallet.

They found the Dracut man, a construction worker, sprawled in the roadway near his car. In addition to the deep stab wound in his back, there were other wounds

GI Guns Set to Nip Red Plot in Reich

By AUSTEN LAKE

AUGSBURG, Germany—(With the U. S. Constabulary)—Now I am near the heart of Bavaria, 90 miles as the jeep rolls from the placid province of Wuertemberg. There is a noticeable air of tension in this old textile town, which I had not sensed further west—something like the growing chill of approaching autumn, as one nears the Russian-Czech-Austrian spheres of triangular trouble.

Here the Constabulary's 2nd Regiment, largest in the U. S. zone, sits like a police dog with ears erect and alert for any emergency. It sniffs possible trouble. For only two days ago all 3200 officers and men in this old Nazi army barracks were ordered to strap on sidearms, 45 caliber automatics which they carry constantly with loaded magazines, and a charge in the chamber. They have never worn their weapons before except on patrol duty. Nor are they told what is afoot—just "be ready for anything." That is all!

As is the case with all hush-hush subjects at a miltary post, there are dribs and drabs of information which form a mosaic of fact. It's no secret that a minority of Communist Germans have been sprouting like an ugly weed growth in late months, thriving on the impudence and insults of the Russian delegation in United Nations. American patience is mistaken for weakness, and Communists here, so say U. S. Counter Intelligence officials, are playing on the fears of Bavaria.

Pvt. Carleton Davenport

So the Second is prepared for any Communist "putsch," though probably not by physical force, since this is the most strongly garrisoned region in the zone. But it might take shape in work stoppage, or social sabotage such as demonstrations. The word is passed from the CIA whose agents are peppered through this area, a nursery for German unrest.

Thirty miles south from here in Landsberg Prison, an Austrian neurotic named Adolf Schickigruber, wrote his Nazi bible, "Mein Kampf." Forty miles due east, as Adolf Hitler, he made his Munich "beer hall putsch," an uprising which finally lifted him to the pinnacle of Europe's No. 1 political racketeer. This is still fertile soil for social conspiracy where there is a well defined plot of "passive resistance"

"circuit." (He is brother to Mrs. A. J. Koch of 36 Zeller st., Roslindale.) Three times in our passage Germans stepped suddenly off the curbing in the path of our car, causing Fr. Berle to jam on his brakes. The first two times we didn't think it intentional but when a third German dashed into our way with a sneering curl on his lip and nearly unhooked our spines with the jerking stop, the chaplain forgot his piety and let go a burst of German dialect which sounded like the smack of a wet towel. Later, at the caserne, we learned that this was a familiar Augsburg trick—a psychopathic gesture of contempt. For under the "Gemutlich" (Hail fellow) policy of our military government, woe betide the American, whether soldier or civilian, whose auto knocks down a German, or who rams a native vehicle. He is hauled promptly to court, as U. S. officers attest, with

General Strike Feared in Paris

PARIS, Oct. 20 (INS)—Communist-led subway and bus strikers voted today to continue their strike and a union official hinted at a possible general strike—perhaps by tonight—unless the government capitulates to their demands.

The decision of transport workers to continue the walkout that has crippled transportation in the capital came when they learned the government refused to pay for days lost while on strike.

Thomas H. Calnan, Jr., 24, Johnson rd., and James H. Pitts, Jr., 28, Bridge st., sped 18 miles from North Weymouth to the hospital with the injured dog after finding it in the street.

Found Un-American Writers In Our Studio, Says Warner

By RAYMOND WILCOVE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20 (INS)—Jack L. Warner, Hollywood film magnate, testified today that unAmerican individuals, most of them writers, had been discovered in his own studio. Warner, first witness at the House unAmerican Activities Committee's probe of Communism in the film industry, said the persons he referred to had "attempted to put certain things in the script which were unAmerican."

He refused to label such persons "Communists because, he explained, he he "wouldn't know a Communist if he saw one."

Secret testimony given to the committee by Warner in Hollywood last May was read today and listed nearly a score of screen writers he charged sought to insert leftist propaganda in their scripts.

HIGHLY-PAID WRITERS

The highly-paid writers named by Warner included Ring Lardner, Jr., Alvah Bessie, Gordon Kahn, Howard Koch, Dalton Trumbo, John Wexley, Clifford Odets, Irwin Shaw and Albert Maltz.

Warner testified the ideas of these men were unAmerican, but declared he did not know whether or not the writers were Communist sympathizers. He added all had been fired.

Warner identified Kahn as editor of a paper for the Screen Writers' Guild. After he discharged him, Warner continued, Kahn went to Mexico on an assignment for Holiday, a Curtis Publishing Co. magazine.

Warner said he instructed his New York office to inform Curtis of his reasons for dismissing Kahn. The company replied, he said, that its assignments to writers were none of Warner's business.

DENIES PRESSURE

Warner blasted as fantasy the assertion that White House pressure was used to force filming of former Ambassador Joseph E. Davies' controversial "Mission to Moscow."

He declared "Mission to Moscow" was produced as an attempt to help a desperate war effort."

"If making 'Mission to Moscow' in 1942 a subversive activity, then the American Liberty ships which carried food and guns to Russian allies and the American naval vessels which convoyed them were likewise engaged in subversive activities."

The producer said:

"If there are Communists in our industry, or any other industry, organization or society, who seek to undermine our free insttituons, let's find out about it.

He explained:

"Our American way of life is under attack from without and from within our national borders. I believe it is the duty of each loyal American to resist these attacks and defeat them," and added:

"We can't fight dictatorships by borrowing dictatorial methods. Nor can we defend freedom by curtailing liberties, but we can attack with a free press and a fre screen."

ASK SUBPOENAS QUARTERED

Despite his denial of pressure, however, Warner testified his studios would not have filmed "Mission to Moscow" if the government had not approached him on it.

Chairman Thomas opened the hearing today with the charge that Communists have had considerable success in worming into the film industry.

At conclusion of Thomas' opening statement, Robery Kenny, former California attorney general and counsel for 19 movie celebrities called as witnesses, asked the committee to consider his motion to quash the subpoenas.

Thomas said none of Kenny's witnesses would be called until next week. He said in the meantime the committee would take the motion under advisement.

U. S., Russia Deadlock Over Ukraine, India

By PIERRE J. HUSS

FLUSHING MEADOWS, N. Y., Oct. 20 (INS)—Russia and the United States continued their stubborn deadlock in the United Nations today when the General Assembly failed to elect either the Ukraine or India to the 1948 Security Council.

The 57-nation plenary, casting the tenth and eleventh ballots since the battle over Poland's seat began three weeks ago, gave the Ukraine 29 and 30 votes and India 20 and 25.

A minimum of 35 votes is called for to give any candidate a winning decision.

The same deadlock continued on the two trusteeship council seats after Dr. Oswaldo Aranha, president of the Assembly, postponed the Security Council balloting until later in the day. For the two trusteeship seats, the Philippines received 34 votes, Costa Rica 28, Norway 24 and Siam 23.

The ballotings today disclosed that neither Russia nor the United States has lost ground since the bitter campaign began Sept. 30. The United States wants to elect India and bar the Ukraine on the grounds the latter is a Soviet satellite.

Didn't Kill Malden Girl, Coombes Tells Jurors

Robert Coombes, 17, of Malden, paroled sex offender on trial in Middlesex Superior Court for the slaying of Jacqueline Maxwell, 11, last March 2, took the stand in his own defense today to deny that he had killed the little girl.

Grinning sheepishly at times, Coombes testified Jacqueline was "breathing and alive" when he left her covered with boards in a vacant Malden lot. He said she had fallen and hit her head on a rock when she ran away from him. Asked why he placed boards over her body, he said:

"It was raining hard and I didn't want her to get wet." 4

The youth said he met the child, whom he had known a year, in front of the Strand Theater and was walking with her when, "I got dizzy." He continued:

"I felt I wanted to beat someone up. I grabbed Jacqueline. One hand I put around her neck. The other I held over her mouth. I ripped her clothes off. I told her then to go home. It was still raining hard. She ran and fell, striking her head on a rock. I grabbed tshe boards, put them over her body and went home."

He said he "slept well" that night until his mother awakened him at 9:30 a. m. and asked him if he had killed anybody. He said he told her he hadn't, but she telephoned the police, and they took him to the station, where he was left alone with Sgt. William J. Butler and another officer. They gave him a piece of paper, and he wrote a confession, he said, adding:

"I would have hit Butler if I thought I could have gotten away with it. He gets on my nerves."

Asst. Dist. Atty. Ephriam Martin had Coombes read his brief confession in which he admitted, "I killed a little girl."

"That's true, isn't it? the prosecutor asked.

"It's true I wrote it," Coombes answered.

"No, I mean it is true you killed that little girl," Martin shouted.

"No, I didn't," Coombes said.

The trial is continuing with three nationally-known psychiatrists scheduled to take the stand to bolster the defense contention that Coombes is insane.

DISAPPEARS

Banker, 4 Others Quizzed In Hunt for Quincy Model

A strikingly beautiful Quincy model, a 20-year-old graduate of a Boston modeling school, vanished mysteriously 48 hours ago, it was disclosed today. Emma Merrill of Glover ave., Quincy, disappeared after family members heard her telephoning a girl named "Sandra," a classmate of? hers at a Boston modeling school.

Search for the pretty girl, known professionally as "Jo" Merrill, and described as a stately brunette with extremely large blue eyes, was delayed because family fears were allayed when they received the following telegram at 2 a. m. Saturday:

But subsequent investigation disclosed that the telegram had been sent by a man giving a fictitious name and a Haviland st., Back Bay, address.

Still further probe, after Mrs. Mary T. Merrill, the girl's mother, had frantically called in police, revealed that Emma numbered among her close friends a socially prominent Boston banker and a well known Boston hotel manager. Both have admitted seeing her on last Thursday.

The Boston hotel manager readily admitted knowing Emma and having employed her as a hostess last summer at York Beach. He gave the name of a well known investment banker as another friend of the missing girl.

The hotel manager said that he had kept dates with Emma and had an appointment to take her to dinner last Thursday night.

"She didn't arrive on time," the manager said. "She did show up about 9:30 in the evening and she said she had been out to dinner with a banker friend. She named him. We talked a while and then she left for home. I have not seen her since."

When Mrs. Merrill became worried about her daughter Saturday morning she checked with another daughter, Mrs. Virginia Drinan of Church st., Pittsfield. The latter said Emma was not there and that she had heard nothing from her.

Police obtained the name of the man who had sent the telegram to the Merrill home. But a check at the address in Haviland st. disclosed no such person. The occupant, however, has the same first name and last initial as given by the telegram sender.

Police also questioned two roomers at the same address. Both denied ever having met an Emma Merrill.

The three men at the Haviland st. address, the investment banker and the hotel manager all face further police quizzing.

Delay Satira Trial, Ex-Mate Ready to Help

By JAMES RUSSELL

HAVANA, Oct. 20 (INS)—The trial of Patricia (Satira) Schmidt for the killing of Chicago lawyer John Lester Mee aboard his yacht in Havana harbor was adjourned unexpectedly today until Oct. 31.

The postponement was announced soon after Charles Jackson of River Forest, Ill., close friend of the slain man, had resumed the witness stand.

Failure of prosecution witnesses to appear was responsible for the postponement. Court circles said they had not been expected to be called.

Meanwhile, Carl Sperry, Patricia's former husband arrived unexpectedly to testify in the dancer's defense, Rene Castellanos, her attorney announced.

Castellanos' announcement was particularly surprising inasmuch as rumors previously had it Sperry might testify for the prosecution.

Wartime buddy of Mee, Jackson was aboard the Chicago attorney's yacht when the latter was shot last April as the climax to a bitter row with Patricia.

Before Mee succumbed to the neck wound which Patricia testified she inflicted when the former naval officer reached for a sword to attack her, Jackson told authorities he was her lover. Later, he explained he had merely intended to defend his pal from unfavorable notoriety by this ruse.

Both Jackson and the defendant testified he was in another part of the vessel and learned of the incident only when Patricia called hysterically that Mee had been hurt.

Jackson has remained aloof from Patricia since the trial began

During the last couple of nights, however, he has been seen in a local bar with Sharon Lynn, former roommate in Chicago of the defendant and listed as a witness for the defense.

Socialite found drugged.

Seek Motive In Drugging of Hub Socialite

A family attorney today sought to solve the mystery of how Mrs. Marialyce Swain Burrage, 25, Boston and Ipswich socialite, came to be drugged and unconscious in a grass plot in the Fenway.

The victim, who doctors claim had been given a dose of sleeping pills, was reported in greatly improved condition at City Hospital today and ready to talk with Atty. Ralph Richards, Court st. lawyer, and a private investigator, both retained by Mr. and Mrs. Howland Swain of Boston and Ipswich.

Mrs. Burrage, divorced wife of socially prominent Russell Burrage of Beacon Hill, was taken to City Hospital, where she was unidentified for hours while her family was seeking her through police.

Her sister, Ann, reported her missing when she failed to return from the office of a well known Back Bay and Brookline physician. It was stated she had gone to collect wages due her as a nurse's assistant.

After the victim had been identified at the hospital, police went to the doctor's home in Brookline. He admitted Mrs. Burrage had visited him and asked for money but added that he had given her none because he considered her service voluntary.

The doctor said he drove her around for a while and that she then refused to get out of his machine. He said she finally got out in the Fenway, a short distance from the hotel where she lives and that he did not see her again.

"My daughter does not use narcotics in any form," declared Mrs. Swain. "We intend to get to the bottom of this mystery and we will prosecute whoever is responsible when we find out."

Mrs. Burrage startled society in March 1941 by running off to marry Burrage at Nashua, N. H., just as her parents were arranging for an elaborate wedding ceremony at their Ipswich estate.

Later, she divorced her Army-captain husband, charging cruelty, and was given custody of a 3-year-old daughter.

Fire Hazard Spreading On 20th Day of Drouth

Fire-fighters still battled against forest fires in Massachusetts and Maine and more wells in the rural areas of Vermont and New Hampshire were drying up as New England's unprecedented drouth entered its 20th successive day today with no rain in the offing for at least another 48 hours.

The fire hazard reached into Rhode Island, where Gov. John O. Pastore ordered all woodlands closed to the public. Only Connecticut has not found it necessary yet to follow suit of the other New England states.

In Boston, where heat records for this month have been smashed several times, rainfall since Sept. 20, when a weak .06 of an inch fell, is described officially by the weather bureau as "a trace." On Sept. 22 only a half-inch fell, and the last sizable precipitation occurred Sept. 2, 48 days ago, when the rainfall measured 2.71 inches.

Since Sept. 30, only imperceptible showers fell on scattered areas of New England. The normal rainfall for this month should have reached 1.93 inches by now.

The forest fires in Maine and Massachusetts were being fought with dynamite, backfires and planes, while one Bay State community resorted to prayers.

Sicilian Beauty Finally Weds Suitor No. 3

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 20—Amalia Salamone, the 19-year-old Sicilian beauty who came to this country last June to wed an Arlington ex-GI, but changed her mind about him and broke an engagement to a No. 2 suitor as well, was married to No. 3 today a few hours before her extended visa was to expire.

The final choice was Carmello J. Catania, a 23-year-old Thompsonville, Ct., mill hand, who became her husband at a 6 a. m. mass in Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Church. The Rev. William Ludessi, pastor, officiated.

Only an unidentified woman and two witnesses, Henry Jones and Joseph Barker, both of Enfield, Ct., were present.

Not present was Michael J. Biarrio, Varnum st., Arlington, who had met Amalia while serving in Italy and posted a $500 bond for her entrance here to marry him. Her visa expires today and Biarrio will get his money back.

Among the missing also was ex-Marine Louis Cadello, Tyler st., Westfield. Amalia said she would marry him after she and Biarrio decided to call it off.

She wore a tailored green suit to match her green eyes, a black velvet hat and black blouse. She and Catania slipped out a rear door of the church and sped away in an automobile for their honeymoon.

ATLANTA, Oct. 20 (AP)—Brush your tongue when you clean your teeth, says a University of Minnesota professor, and you'll avoid unpleasant breath.

Dr. Raymond E. Johnson, president of the American Academy of Periodontology (pyorrhea) told the Georgia Dental Ass'n today the human tongue catches debris like grass in a public park. He advocated brushing with a gentle forward motion after every meal.

Tributes Pave Way for Boston Greeting to Heroic Soldier Dead

Consoled by the reverent tribute paid to the heroic war dead of Massachusetts in a parade and memorial exercises in Boston Arena, relatives today awaited with fortitude arrival of the bodies of loved ones who sacrificed their lives in freedom's cause.

Col. George E. Hartman, commanding the Army General Depot, Schenectady, N. Y., who came to Boston for the memorial services, and who is in charge of the bodies of Boston and New England heroes who died in the Pacific war theater, said the task of shipping the bodies to their homes would be completed with all possible speed. He said the first may be on their way here late today or tomorrow.

Thousands of citizens were in the hushed throng at the Arena, where martial music alternated with the solemn dirge for the dead, in one of the most momentous memorial tributes in the city's history.

COLORS IN EVIDENCE

The flag for which the flower of Massachusetts youth died to keep flying was unfurled in glory above the vast amphitheater, while other flags, more than 100 sets of colors borne by representatives of all branches of the armed services and veterans' organizations, flanked both sides of the speakers' platform.

On the platform were Gov. Bradford and Acting-Mayor Hynes, State and civic leaders, clergymen of all faiths and high-ranking officers who had shared battle with those being honored.

Standing on this platform as shafts of sunlight glowed against the colors, Brig. Gen. Louis R. Jones, USMC, orator of the occasion, sounded the symbolic keynote of the memorable service.

Symbolic, too, was the dramatic, extemporaneous tribute to the dead heroes by Maj. William B. Foley, Catholic wartime chaplain in the China-Burma-India area and administrator of Holy Cross Cathedral.

Many of the mothers and fathers, the wives and sweethearts of the boys who died, were present at the Arena services yesterday, and Fr. Foley's moving tribute brought tears to their eyes and sobs to their throats. They heard, too, the eloquent tribute of Gov. Bradford.

Even more impressive than the speakers, even more symbolic of war and its sacrifice than the great pageant of military splendor which honored the dead, were the war-bereaved individuals, spectators to this honor, who had attended the service, not to mourn but to exult that their memory still lived.

They heard invocation, prayer and benediction of clergymen uniting without distinction of faith or creed or color, as those who died had been united only in the brotherhood and fellowship of patriots and heroes.

SERVICES ON COMMON

Others had attended the outdoor exercises on Boston Common, held simultaneously with the Arena memorial, and had viewed an impressive military parade to the Arena through the Back Bay section.

The two-fold tribute to World War II dead was sponsored by the Boston Record-American and Sunday Advertiser, in co-operation with a committee representing state and civic leaders, veteran and fraternal organizations and clergymen of all faiths.

Organ music by John Kiley opened the Arena program, followed by a funeral march by Arlington Post, No. 39, American Legion Band.

There followed the presenting and posting of colors and "Call to Colors" by Norman Prince Post, VFW, Drum and Bugle Corps Honor Guard and New Post, American Legion, Rifle Platoon. The gathering then joined in the national anthem, with Lucille Manners, famed singer and soloist with the Arlington Post, American Legion, Band.

Invocation was by Dean Edwin Van Etten, St. Paul's Cathedral, followed by a musical selection, The Cecelia Society, with Victor Manusevitch as director, rendered a selection, "Nenia," by Johannes Brahms. Prayer was offered by Rabbi Herman H. Rubenovitz. Tributes were given by representatives of Marine Corps, Coast Guard and Red Cross, and "The Lord's Prayer was sung by Miss Manners.

Gen. Jones' oration then followed. Rendition of "My Buddy," by Thomas Quinn, Boston's golden-voiced tenor, past commander of Cambridge Post, American Legion, and member of the Cambridge Lodge of Elks, followed. He was accompanied by Prof. Benedict Fitzgerald, director of music for the Cambridge public schools.

Taps was sounded by the Norman Prince Post VFW Drum and Prince Post VFW Drum and Bugle Corps.

'ROYAL' SCALPERS

LONDON, Oct. 20 (AP)—Black marketeers are offering as much as 750 pounds ($3000) each for invitations to the wedding a month from today of Princess Elizabeth and Lt. Philip Mountbatten, according to rumors floating around London.

But even if some of the invitations should happen to fall into the hands of black market dealers, it still will be a trick to get inside Westminster Abbey, since the invitation card is not transferable and the understanding is that an identification check will be made at the door.

Business Men Told Europe Must Be Fed

Eight hundred top-flight U. S. and Canadian business executives at the opening of the two-day 19th annual Boston conference on distribution in the Hotel Statler were told today that the survival of Europe "is necessary if we are to live in a world of economic health."

The warning was given by Alger Hiss, president of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. Hiss said:

"Our interest in European economic survival transcends the humanitarian desires of furnishing relief to our allies."

FOOD OR U. S. LIVES

Earlier, Ken R. Dyke, executive of a national radio network, and former brigadier general under Gen. MacArthur, said the nation's choice lies between feeding Europe now or sacrificing American lives later.

"Tons of food—perhaps a little sacrifice now," he said, "or the loss of thousands of American lives in the future. Sounds like a bargain to me."

People all over the world, he added, are worrying about their bellies first, ideologies, second.

In a prepared address on "Selling Democracy to Japan," Dyke said:

"The success of your business and mine depends upon a peaceful United States."

MACY HEAD SPEAKER

Speaking on the spiraling cost of living, Jack I. Straus, president of R. H. Macy Co., New York, listed three obstacles to downward price revision as:

A shortage of raw materials; percentage markups resulting in pyramiding of profits, and weakening of competition at retail by price-fixing laws and by the practice of price-maintenance by manufacturers.

A letter to Daniel Bloomfield, conference director, from President Truman stated in part:

"Our economy operates at its most efficient level when business profits are realizable through high sales volume at the lowest prices attainable."

Harkins, 27 Years Curator Of Franklin Park Zoo, Dies

Daniel J. Harkins, 62, for the past 27 years curator of the Franklin Park Zoo, died at his home on Monument ave., Charlestown early today. A nationally known animal trainer, Harkins was associated with Ringling Bros. circus before being appointed assistant curator of the Zoo in 1914. Six years later he was named curator.

Funeral services will be held from his home on Thursday with a solemn high mass of requiem at St. Mary's Church, Charlestown. Burial will be at Holy Cross Cemetery, Malden.

The curator is survived by his widow, Mrs. Loretta A. (Doherty) Harkins, whom he married in 1936.

A native of the North End, Harkins was beloved by hundreds of adults who knew of his ardent desire and constant work to keep Boston's zoo among the best in the country.

Philippines Puppet President Goes on Trial

MANILA, Oct. 20 (AP)—The long-delayed treason trial of Dr. Jose Laurel, puppet president of the Philippines during the Japanese occupation, opened before a people's court tribunal today.

The prosecution placed a Japanese newspaperman, Koji Nakamura, on the stand to bring out that Laurel had embraced the Asia-for-the-Asiatics ideology.

22-BALLOT DEADLOCK

2 Suing Wives Tell of Punches

Two North Shore wives whose husbands threw mean rights today sought divorces in Salem Probate Court before Judge John V. Phelan.

Mrs. Eclanora S. Pelletier, 29, of Pearl st., Marblehead, testified that when Gideon Pelletier of Salem took a punch at her she ducked and his fist hit the wall so hard it knocked out the plaster.

Mrs. Lillian M. White, 27, of Saugus, testified that once her husband, Arthur J. White, hit her so hard she was knocked across the kitchen. Both cases were taken under advisement.

Lack of Nails May Halt New Homes

NEW YORK, Oct. 20 (AP)—Shortage of nails for home building may cause a virtual stoppage of construction in some areas within the next 30 to 60 days, Fred H. Ludwig, president of the National Committee on Housing, said today.

A nationwide survey by the committee showed the acute shortage is slowing down residential construction. Hardest hit is the northeastern United States.

An active gray market in nails is appearing, Ludwig said, with seemingly ample stocks at from $9.75 to $12 a keg compared with the regular price of $5.

Food Chiefs Tackle Saving Of Feed Grain

By WILLIAM UMSTEAD

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20 (INS)—The administration tackled today the biggest problem in its food-saving drive—livestock and poultry feeding—with the elimination of poultryless Thursday in prospect.

Officials of the Citizens' Food Committee scheduled their first joint meeting with poultrymen and feed dealers to discuss whether poultryless days should be continued as a means of saving grain.

There are persistent reports that the poultryless day will be eliminated or modified if the feed and poultry industries offer an acceptable alternate program of reducing the amount of grain fed to fowl.

OTHER 'DAYS' TO STAY

Reliable sources said there is no likelihood that either meatless or eggless days will be abandoned in the conservation program regardless of what decision may be reached on the 'eat-no-poultry' appeal.

As the Committee considered the problem of livestock and poultry feeding, Agriculture Sec. Anderson emphasized the need for American aid to foreign countries.

In an article written for International News Service, Anderson pointed out that "Russia is in a strategic position with her zone of influence extending over the normally surplus grain producing areas."

MUST HELP SELVES

Anderson also declared that the people of Europe must implement American aid by improving methods of using and distributing their own food supplies.

The committee estimates about 32,000,000 bushels of grain at most can be saved in various industries. This means that two-thirds of the 100,000,000 bushel goal must be achieved on farms.

Signposts Point To Mental Illness

Modern psychiatrists urge laymen to learn the signposts that point to emotional illness and so to obtain medical aid while there is still time to prevent a catastrophe.

The signposts—unjustified fears, despair, loss of memory, depression—were there for Mrs. Lenore McCall to see, but she refused to recognize them. Four and a half years of mental illness followed, necessitating her confinement in two institutions.

Now back with her husband and three children, Mrs. McCall has written an exclusive article, "I Could Have Been Helped," for next Sunday's American Weekly, magazine issued with the Boston Sunday Advertiser, in which she describes the horrors of her suffering and points out how many mental patients can be rescued by quick and qualified aid.

New DeGaulle Party Sweeps French Ballot

PARIS, Oct. 20 (AP)—Candidates nominated by Gen. Charles DeGaulle's six months-old rally of the French people (RPF) were leading in 29 out of 37 major municipalities today as returns from yesterday's balloting rolled in from all over France.

DeGaulle's party held a substantial lead over all other parties, including the Communists, in the early returns.

"There's no doubt about it, DeGaulle has won," said Maurice Schuman, parliamentary leader of the popular Republican movement (MRP), which lost ground heavily in yesterday's voting. DeGaulle's RPF, although leading the Communists, did not appear to have dented Communist voting strength in any substantial amount.

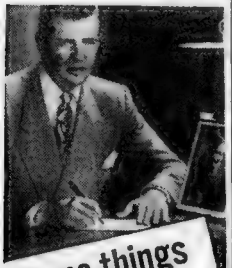
A tabulation of the first 3,618,266 votes counted showed RPF—1,388,781, or 38.4 per cent of the total. Communists 1,108,843, 30.65 per cent. Socialists—698,457, 19.5 per cent. Popular Republican movement (MRP)—337,690, 9.8 per cent. Various—84,492.

FREEDOM DAY

MANILA, Oct. 20 (AP)—Three years ago today a vast American amphibious force steamed silently, before dawn, into the Leyte gulf; landing craft churned in after a furious bombardment, and Gen. MacArthur radioed to the world: "I have returned."

It is possible, the Manila Post remarked today, that this third anniversary of the landing on Leyte is only vaguely remembered by many; "but the genuine significance of the day lies in the hearts of millions of Filipinos who suffered during the enemy occupation and who had waited patiently for liberation.

"To those people, Oct. 20 is synonymous with freedom."



Some things you can't write a woman

"This is goodbye, Ann. I'm sorry, I can't explain . . ." . . . How can you tell someone about "B.O." (body odor)? What a pity so many people never realize they have it themselves! Be sure you don't offend. Bathe daily with Lifebuoy—the only soap especially made to stop "B.O."

West Roxbury Man Is Held In $150,000 Dentist Swindle

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 20 (INS)—A confidence man who allegedly stole $152,000 from one of Rhode Island's most prominent dentists to play the horses, pleaded innocent today in sixth district court.

Henry P. Farnham, 64, West Roxbury, Mass., was held in $50,000 bail charged with embezzlement of $22,778 from Dr. Ernest S. Calder during the past three years. The statue of limitations excludes Farnham for being prosecuted for the other nine years.

Judge John P. Cooney set Oct. 30 as a hearing date and sent Farnham to Providence County Jail when he said he was "broke" and unable to obtain bail.

Farnham, who police said was a "very good friend" was arrested Saturday on the complaint of Dr. Calder. Farnham is alleged to have told police he never invested the money but bet it on horse racing. He said he usually bet $500 to $1000 at a time on the horses.

Drowning in Tub Due to Illness

Dr. Timothy Leary, medical examiner, reported today an autopsy revealed that Mrs. Virginia Perry, 22, wife of a Northeastern University student, had suffered an epileptic fit shortly before she was found dead in the bathtub of their Edgerly rd., Back Bay, apartment last Friday. He reported death was caused by drowning.

The victim's husband, Robert M. Perry, 24, and a fellow student, Walter Reed of Huntington ave., Back Bay, were studying in the apartment while she was stricken and drowned

CROUPY NIGHT COUGHING
(CAUSED BY COLDS)

Mothers are delighted the way the first spoonfuls of PERTUSSIN often bring prompt relief from such croupy coughing.

And PERTUSSIN is so pleasant and safe for kiddies. It's entirely free from chloroform, creosote and narcotics. No wonder so many Doctors prescribed it for years for bad coughs due to colds.

PERTUSSIN acts at once. It not only relieves coughing but it actually loosens up tickling phlegm and makes it easier to "raise". Also mighty effective for adults.

Catholics Rap Red Kidnaping Of Reich Boys

BERLIN, Oct. 20 (AP)—The Roman Catholic bishops of Germany, an authoritative informant said today, have filed with the Allied Control Council a protest against what they call the kidnapping of more than 2000 German boys and girls in the in the Soviet zone since the occupation began.

The informant said the protest was filed after private efforts of parents to learn from Soviet authorities the whereabouts or fate of their children proved fruitless.

A similar protest was voiced publicly last June by Count rad Cardinal Von Preysing of Berlin, who said he was "deeply depressed by the lot of the parents in Berlin and surroundings whose children and youths have been taken away, picked up. They disappeared without a sign of life and without a reason given for their arrest.

The Berlin press has reported periodically that children from 11 to 18 years of age have been taken up in the Soviet zone of Berlin somtimes by men in Russian uniforms, sometimes by German police.

in ice skating... in cigarettes too," says June Arnold

NOTED BALLERINA ON THE ICE

"I'VE TRIED THEM ALL AND I KNOW FROM EXPERIENCE THAT CAMEL IS THE SMOKE FOR ME!"

Born in St. Louis, June Arnold has starred in many famous ice revues here and abroad.

MORE PEOPLE ARE SMOKING CAMELS THAN EVER BEFORE!

Your "T-ZONE" will tell you...
T FOR TASTE...
T FOR THROAT...
That's your proving ground for any cigarette. See if Camels don't suit your "T-ZONE" to a "T."

JUNE ARNOLD'S rise to stardom as "Ballerina of the Ice" has been a great experience for her—and for the thousands who have watched her spectacular performances. And, as a smoker, Miss Arnold had an interesting experience during the wartime cigarette shortage.

"I smoked so many different brands when cigarettes were hard to get," says Miss Arnold, "I had a chance to make comparisons. That's when I learned that Camels suit me best."

Thousands and thousands of smokers had the same experience during the wartime cigarette shortage, Miss Arnold. And, with smoker after smoker who tried and compared, Camels are the "choice of experience."

R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, N. C.

When 113,597 doctors from coast to coast were asked by three leading independent research organizations to name the cigarette they smoked, more doctors named Camel than any other brand!

According to a Nationwide survey:

MORE DOCTORS SMOKE CAMELS THAN ANY OTHER CIGARETTE

Military Training Stressed Despite A-Bomb Weapon

Special to Boston Evening American

DETROIT, Oct. 20— That the atom bomb has eliminated the need for universal military training were flatly contradicted by Brig.-Gen. Ralph A. Loveland, soldier-engineer, veteran of three wars and commander of Michigan's National Guard.

Now 55 Gen Loveland fought in the Mexican campaign and World War I, served as in World War II the commanded a battalion of combat engineers in Europe.

He asserted

"We haven't arrived at push-button warfare, if indeed we ever do. Historically, every war has begun with the same weapons with which the preceding war was finished. There is no reason to expect it to be otherwise now or in the future.

A-BOMB PLUS ARMY

"As for the A-bomb, we have reason to suspect Russia will have one in the next three or four years.

"In view of that, isn't it reasonable to ask why Russsia is maintaining such a large army if the A-bomb is going to make armies unnecessary?

"The answer is that whatever weapons you have, you still need men to use them, and the atom bomb is no exception.

"You need men to use the bombs, and to guard them, to say nothing of making them in the first place.

"Remember this: You cannot use the atom bomb against territory that you intend to occupy afterwards.

"Nor is it a weapon that can be used against personnel in the military sense. The A-bomb will be an important weapon, but hardly the only weapon.

NEED TRAINED MEN

"For all these reasons, I think it is plain that we will stand in greater need of trained men, instead of fewer.

"Certainly the next war, if it comes, will come quickly. We won't have two years to get ready, or even two months.

"In the next war, just as in any past war, basic training, knowledge of organization and discipline are going to be just as vital.

Our years of experience give you the utmost in quality and service—plus unsurpassed values

Girl, 21, Believed Safe, Despite Murder Note

Detectives investigating the disappearance of Sally Ann Hale, 21-year-old waitress who vanished from her West Concord st., South End, room last Wednesday, said today they believed she was bound for Norfolk, Va., to meet a sailor of her acquaintance.

The investigators, who studied considerable correspondence found in her room, said they did not take seriously a note she left expressing fear she might become the victim of a murder plot.

UNDER A NEW NUMBERING PLAN, a figure will be added to every central office name.

Thus, HANcock 9981 will become HAncock 6-9981. This will be dialed HA6 9981; spoken, Hancock Six—Nine, Nine, Eight, One.

This numbering plan will become effective gradually, as new Boston telephone directories are being delivered, beginning about November 20. You should begin to use the new numbers on the day when the directories are delivered to you.

NEW PLAN IS EASY TO USE

The change will be a minor one. It will make possible a greater flexibility in the naming of the many central offices which Boston now requires. It also paves the way for operator dialing of long distance calls — an improvement due here within the next few years.

WHAT YOUR NEW NUMBER WILL BE

Unless you have been specifically notified otherwise, you will keep your present central office name, changing it only by the addition of the new figure. There are three exceptions: ARNold will become JAmaica 4; PERkins will become WAtertown 3; RUGgles will become HIghlands 2. The new designation of your central office is shown in the table at the left. Your new letterheads and other printed forms should be changed accordingly.

USING YOUR OWN NUMBER

Whenever you tell any one your own number or give it to an operator (as, for example, when making a long distance call) please be sure to add the new figure to your central office name.

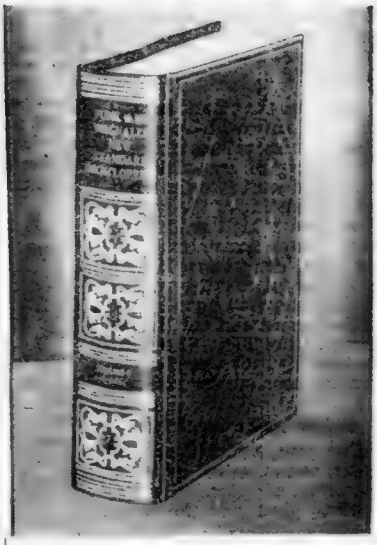
WITH OUR COMPLIMENTS

Volume One of the New 1947 Edition

–NOW ON PRESS!

[ALL WE ASK YOU TO PAY IS TEN CENTS TO COVER COST OF MAILING IT TO YOU]



WE ARE now on press with our latest 1947 Edition of the Funk & Wagnalls New Standard Encyclopedia, which in previous editions sold over 15,000,000 volumes—an amazing record.

This latest edition, newly revised, we have allocated among the newspapers and magazines carrying our current advertising program. In accordance with this plan, we have set aside 1500 sets for Record-American readers and now invite you to become the owner of a set—making you this extraordinary offer to enable you to become acquainted with the volume before you decide to buy.

We want to send you Volume I of the set with our compliments. Merely send us 10c to cover our mailing cost—more as evidence of your good faith than anything else. This volume is yours to keep without any further obligation on your part. If, after examining Volume I, you want the rest of the 27-volume set, you may receive it at a ridiculously low price through our book a week plan, explained later in this announcement. Or, if you want no further books, you merely drop us a postcard saying so, and that ends the matter.

Some Facts About This Encyclopedia

We expect to enclose with Volume I a small pamphlet giving the facts to show that this is one of the finest encyclopedias anyone can buy for home use—unsurpassed by any other at any price.

In the meantime, we want to give you a few of the facts printed in the pamphlet, so as to interest you in taking the trouble to send for Volume I.

This newest 1947 Edition contains over 52,000 subjects, covered in separate articles. Compare this with any other encyclopedia in the world. You'll find that this number is at least 30% greater than in encyclopedias costing you up to four times as much as ours.

Each volume (comprising about 500 double-columned pages) contains over a quarter of a million words—over seven million words in all—which will give you some idea of the completeness of coverage of each subject.

Each volume is as up-to-date as human ingenuity can make it. In this edition the subjects have been revised to cover events of this last year, and each volume, as it goes to press, is brought finally up-to-the-minute. Our unique book a week delivery plan, bringing you the volumes almost as they come off the presses, makes it the most up-to-date of encyclopedias. Better still—later volumes, delivered to you during the coming months—will contain events which have not yet occurred!

Easy-Reading, Handy Volumes

Editor-in-Chief of the original edition was Frank H. Vizetelly, the beloved "Viz" of radio fame, and editor of the unexcelled Funk & Wagnalls New Standard (unabridged) Dictionary. Surrounded by a host of authorities in many fields, he brought this immense work into being.

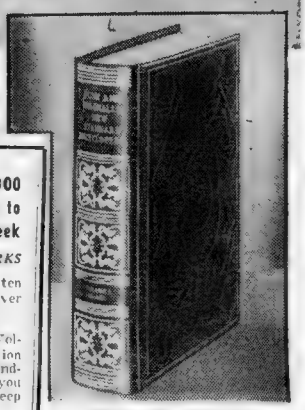
An Unusual Offer to Record-American Readers

FREE! VOLUME ONE OF THE 1947 EDITION OF THE FUNK & WAGNALLS ENCYCLOPEDIA

ALL WE ASK YOU TO PAY IS TEN CENTS TO COVER COST OF MAILING IT TO YOU



Copyright 1947 Unicorn Press

But the books are easy to read! Your children in grammar and high school can read them, use them with profit. Free of technical detail, abstruse wording and dry-as-dust research specialist attitude—and free also of concise, over-abbreviated, fact-omitting brevity—this grand encyclopedia will be your rainy evening companion for many years to come.

And in spite of their truly enormous contents, each volume can be held in one hand! Gone is the old-fashioned, bulky, cumbersome format—big, heavy books that easily drop and as easily break. Here is a new, streamlined, USE-ABLE set that is attractive, interesting and handy for daily reference.

Nor does the almost incredibly low price we have set on the remaining volumes indicate the quality of materials and labor that went into the printing and binding of the set. We have used a high grade book paper, cover board, and binding cloth. The printing is crisp and clear cut, and the work of binding has been done by one of the largest and best known firms in the field. These are first quality books, as of course you will soon see for yourself.

Unique Book a Week Plan

Our plan, which has been tested and approved by many thousands of appreciative purchasers, gives you the books almost as quickly as they come off the presses.

The first few volumes are now in press. Volume I is delivered to you immediately. Two weeks later, unless you cancel your reservation after examining Volume I, the next two volumes are mailed to you. Two weeks after that the following two volumes are sent to you, and so on. You thus receive your volumes freshly off press, at the rate of a volume a week.

YOU DO NOT PAY FOR ANY BOOKS IN ADVANCE—We enclose a bill with each two volumes, which you pay within five days after receiving the books. Considering the amazing low price of the set, and the fact that you pay for it at the rate of only a book a week, our own pay-as-you-go plan therefore puts no strain at all on any pocketbook.

How much are the volumes? Here's the surprise. You pay only $1.39 for the De Luxe Binding, plus 11c mailing cost. The complete set thus costs you only a fraction of what other high-grade encyclopedias would cost you—and we want only the opportunity to PROVE to you that ours is unexcelled for your use.

A Choice of Editions

With this announcement we offer you a choice between our De Luxe Edition and our Library Edition of the encyclopedia.

The De Luxe Edition at $1.39 per volume, is bound in dark blue, leather-grained cloth, stamped in red and gilt, as illustrated here, with head and tail-bands, and harmoniously-stained page-tops. End-papers and frontispieces are color reproductions of woodcuts by Hans Alexander Mueller, renowned artist in that medium, the frontispieces being a set of woodcut portraits of American Presidents.

This Year Alone Nearly 100,000 American Families Will Begin to Build Sets at a Volume a Week

HERE IS HOW THE PLAN WORKS

1 Send in coupon below with ten cents in coin or stamps to cover mailing cost of your free book.

2. By return mail you receive Volume I of the latest 1947 Edition of the Funk & Wagnalls New Standard Encyclopedia, in the edition you choose. This book is yours to keep as our gift.

3 If after reading and examining your free volume you decide you do not want the other volumes of the set, merely drop us a line saying so, and that is all.

4. If, however, you DO want the other volumes at the extraordinarily low price we have set upon them, you will receive the rest of the 27-volume set as they come off press at the rate of two volumes every two weeks until your set is complete. You pay no money in advance, but only for volumes received, and AFTER they have been received.

SEND OFF THE COUPON BELOW AT ONCE!

The Library Edition costs slightly more ($1.89 per volume plus the same 11c mailing cost), and has all the features described above, plus a more expensive binding. The covers of this superfine edition are in a tan linen-weave cloth, with red and black title panels, decorated with genuine 22 carat gold leaf, bright and untarnishing—making in all an extremely handsome and dignified set of books.

You may have your choice of these editions in sending for Volume I, at the same 10c mailing cost. However, before indicating your choice of editions in the coupon at lower-left, please remember the difference in price. And hurry! 1500 sets are not many for a newspaper of such large circulation as this one. First come, first served. Send the coupon TODAY!

What Famous People Say About These Wonderful Volumes

RAYMOND GRAM SWING
Noted Radio Commentator:

"It is difficult to think of a more important service contribution by a publisher than the presentation of an encyclopedia within the reach of the ordinary person. In the past the encyclopedia has been a project... [illegible] ... The New Standard Encyclopedia has a great service to perform. Its publishers are to be congratulated, for achieving the position of a work of reference, limited decently and selling at a remarkably low price which is a genuine encyclopedia."

JOHN KIERAN
Famous Newspaper Columnist, "Information Please" Expert:

"I [illegible] ... I look upon it as a part of the ... [illegible] ... and find it ... [illegible] ... I have used it ... [illegible] ... and I am sure it will prove a very practical and helpful ... [illegible]"

THOMAS MANN
Celebrated Author, Nobel Prize Winner:

"I have read A good book [illegible] ... reference ... [illegible] ... am convinced ... will prove a very practical and helpful ... [illegible]"

DEEMS TAYLOR
Noted Composer and Critic:

"I think you are open to congratulations. I have wondered out there ... [illegible] ... perhaps myself and ... know something about ... [illegible] ... are [illegible] ... to ... [illegible]

I must say that the New Standard, considering its limitations of size and space is an extraordinary achievement. Your biographical section is particularly good in that it lists many contemporary names that are not to be found in other similar reference books."

MAJOR GEO. FIELDING ELIOT
Noted Military Analyst, Author, Commentator:

"THE NEW STANDARD ENCYCLOPEDIA exactly fills my need for ready reference on a variety of subjects at home and has indeed enabled me to stay home in comfort and do some little odd jobs of work, that otherwise would have had to be done in the office. So I have already a very definite reason for kindly feelings toward your excellent Encyclopedia."

DOROTHY CANFIELD FISHER
Eminent Educator, Critic:

"I, more in the country as I do and aware as I am of the fact that the high price of the standard-size encyclopedia is prohibitive for most rural families and small-town libraries, I am struck by the special usefulness of the smaller volumes and smaller price of the Funk & Wagnalls edition. They are within the reach of schools, libraries and families who never could have afforded the more expensive sets, and provide a most useful reference work for situations where it is especially needed."

The last report was that an unidentified craft passed over the Gainesville airport at 11:15 p. m., Thursday. It was piloted by Saul E. Kirnosh of Otis, Mass. Others aboard were Robert Piper and Dwight Coulter, both of Pittsfield.

Universal Military Training NOW

IF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE realized the extreme danger to which the country has been reduced by short-sighted neglect of the national defense, there would be no paltering discussions at Washington about calling Congress into special session.

The Congress would BE in session, summoned for the sole purpose of ACTING in this grave emergency.

In point of fact, if the people had UNDERSTOOD the dangerous and costly postwar commitments to be made in our name abroad, and if the people had been properly and officially INFORMED as to what was happening to our land, sea and air forces, their Congress would not have recessed last summer.

Instead, the Congress would have REMAINED IN SESSION and would have passed by overwhelming majorities in both houses adequate legislation establishing immediate UNIVERSAL MILITARY TRAINING as our PERMANENT POLICY.

OF COURSE, when the fighting phases of the Second World War ended, a large demobilization of our armed forces seemed in order.

But the demobilization was not effected in a wise or provident manner.

Congress failed in its duty then by not adopting a Universal Military Training Law to take the place of wartime conscription.

Such a measure, in conjunction with the recently accomplished formation of a unified command, would have permitted the Army and the Navy and the Air Force to retain sufficient experienced personnel to meet any impending exigency and at the same time to provide not only for necessary replacements but — more important — TO CONSTITUTE A HUGE CITIZENS' RESERVE IN CONSTANT READINESS FOR A COMPLETE MOBILIZATION AT ANY TIME.

That kind of preparedness would have been our greatest possible contribution to the cause of world peace.

As events developed, however, the kind of postwar demobilization imposed upon our military and naval commanders was perilous and foolhardy in two respects.

Not all of our troops could come home at once from the wars.

We left a small occupation force in Germany, confronted by a Red army of some 600,000 men.

We left a smaller force in Austria, facing an armed Russian military corridor eight hundred miles long into the heart of Europe.

We left the Eighty-Eighth Division in Venezia Giulia, standing guard on the disputed Italian border against Tito's army of half a million; and since then our forlorn outpost has been reduced to 5000 troops stationed in explosive Trieste.

We left an insufficient army in Korea, where—as in Germany and Austria—Soviet Russia prevents the making of a peace.

Many times in the past, in situations like these—where weakness is deployed against strength—wars have broken out overnight.

SO WE FIND OURSELVES DANGEROUSLY EXPOSED IN WAR AREAS OVERSEAS; AND OUR DANGER IS MAGNIFIED ENORMOUSLY BY OUR LACK OF A SUFFICIENT TRAINING POLICY AT HOME.

THE ENLISTMENT PLANS of the regular Army, of the Navy and of the Air Force are good.

BUT THEIR PLANS ARE INTENDED ONLY TO MAINTAIN THE ADVANCE GUARDS OF NATIONAL SECURITY.

Unless we have always ready the trained manpower necessary to back them up, these cadres might almost as well not exist.

All wars are "total" wars nowadays.

The ONLY WAY to avert total warfare is to BE PREPARED FOR IT.

We cannot be prepared without UNIVERSAL MILITARY TRAINING.

And, in this most critical juncture in world affairs, we must have Universal Military Training NOW.

Carve not upon a stone when I am dead,
The praises which remorseful mourners give
To woman's graves—a tardy recompense,
But speak them while I live.
Forget me when I die! The violets
Above my rest will blossom just as blue,
Nor miss your tears; e'en nature's self forgets
But while I live, be true!

ANON.

DOGS ARE psychic. There's no doubt about that. When you are away your dog is in tune with you. Have seen that proved time and again. A celebrated example of this was the case of the dog of William Terriss, famous British actor. One night in 1897 at 7:20 o'clock this dog jumped from the lap of Mrs. Terriss at her home in Bedford Park and dashed frantically about the drawing room yelping, showing signs of fear and anger. At that very moment at the stage door of the Strand Theater, London, miles away, the dog's master was being murdered by an insane actor.

CARUSO: At the time of the San Francisco earthquake and fire in 1906 Enrico Caruso was sleeping in a suite at the Palace Hotel on Market st. The great tenor leaped out of bed, grabbed a picture of Theodore Roosevelt hanging on the wall and rushed out into the street attired only in his pajamas. And still carrying the portrait of Roosevelt! "Why did Caruso grab the Teddy Roosevelt portrait in preference to any of his own many personal belongings?" asks a San Franciscan. The query has me completely baffled.

Enrico Caruso

ASKING: Queries from clients. Q.—What percentage of young married women are faithful? A.—We have no statistics on this situation. However, I strongly suggest you, as a young fellow, do not take a cynical view of the same. The average American girl is strictly a "one man" woman. All she wants is a nice husband, a little blue heaven, a few babies and a car and a washing machine when her husband can afford it. Q—Is it true George Washington, our first President, was a member of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick? A.—I believe he was an honorary member of the organization you mention.

WASP WAIST: Going in for the "wasp waist" style will result in the follower of this foolish fashion getting pains in her back and in her head. So states a woman who was a "wasp waist" enthusiast. Keep this in mind, mister. Don't permit your wife to become a "wasp waister." The pains resulting will not only cause her to suffer but will make her irritable and she will snap at you. One of the greatest menaces to a happy home atmosphere is a snapping woman. She is almost as bad as a martyr type whiner.

GET IT RIGHT: "Eddie, maybe you should resign from the Young Old Timers. Your lapses are beginning to irritate me," writes a Boston matron. "You state the title of a song of the past was 'Kiss Me Honey and Hold Me Tight.' That's a nice thought, but the wrong title. Name of that song was 'Put Your Arms Around Me Honey and Hold Me Tight.'"

HATS: When the majority of women are wearing hats it means the female of the species is on the march to dominate the male. When the majority goes hatless it means they want to be dominated a little by the men. That's what one Keneth Hopkins claims. Or so I am informed by a feminine subscriber who heard him lecture. "What do you think of this angle?" asks the lady. Well, first I would like to know why Mr. Hopkins doesn't put two n's in his first name and make life easier for the proofreaders. Secondly, I think his claim is strictly the bunk. Women wear hats to improve their appearance. If they can't get a good-looking hat they go hatless. When women do not wear hats it is because they think they look better featuring a fancy hair-do or because the hat designers are not making effective hats.

ASIDES: As for that observation "taking coals to Newcastle" it doesn't mean a thing any more. Recently eight thousand five hundred and sixty-five (8565) tons of coal were shipped from Baltimore, U. S. A., to Newcastle, England.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1947, by King Features Syndicate

NEW YORK, Oct. 20—The story of this nation's surrender to Soviet Russia—a surrender of national prestige and the moral leadership of the civilized world—is not really a new revelation.

Westbrook Pegler

The ignominious memoirs add up and the idolatrous members of Franklin D. Roosevelt's cult can hardly deny now that a smart fathead took our all to the poker party and had to borrow a barrel to come home in.

His own son, Elliott, who nevertheless was given the rank of general and the lives and the dignity of thousands of better citizens to play with, has revealed what drunkenness and roaring ribaldry passed for statesmanship when his pampered father got off the apron string for a few nights among the worldly stags at Teheran.

Hardly more silly and conceited than the old man himself, Elliott wrote a boastful record, which never will be expunged, of stupidity and crassness in a man whose followers have labored to raise him up as a monument of hope, morality, and compassion.

THE CONFESSIONS of James F. Byrnes in the most terrible of the New Deal memories to date, "Speaking Frankly," are a national humiliation.

The American people elected Roosevelt, the mischievous faker, four times. Yet the man who made fools of so many millions of a breed who think themselves the shrewdest and most civilized on earth, himself was played for a fool for more than a decade by Josef Stalin.

Mr. Byrnes gives a poor account of himself. Like Jim Farley and some other penitents, he took too long to wake up. Here it is, October, 1947, and we are hearing for the first time that Stalin traded Fauntleroy a bag of something base for his bag of candy, pulled the big sissy's curls and kicked him in the bloomers.

Roosevelt gave Stalin possessions in the Far East which weren't his to give, a dandy precedent for the next gang of conquerors who would like to divide up the United States, and the price of all this was a few days' nominal participation in a war that the Americans alone already had won.

Beyond the normal traffic killings of his fatalistic Orientals who would rather die than take the trouble to drive around, this war with Japan didn't cost Stalin a split lip, BUT THE SMART YANKEE TRADER THOUGHT THIS WAS STATESMANSHIP. There are persons still who think the same, but they get fewer day by day.

ALL EXPERIENCE shrieked that Stalin was no better than Hitler, that the Muscovites had Roosevelt pegged for a silly snob and that they laughed at his confidence in their word.

When did he get these warnings? Years ago. In 1939, the Dies Committee brought proof that the Russian government was our enemy and no more to be trusted than the Nazis.

The American citizens can't be blamed for not knowing. The Dies Committee elicited thousands of pages of testimony. But the proof tended to make Roosevelt ridiculous and his wife and his mud-gun soldiers smeared the committee.

Witnesses were smeared and discredited who were appearing at risk of their lives and with no prospect of gain or even of jobs, for the New Deal was ruthless in its hounding.

ON SEPT. 23, 1939, Dr. D. H. Dombrowsky testified before the Dies Committee. He was a Ukrainian exile who returned to Russia after the explosion of 1917. He was an old friend of Trotsky and Lenin and of many murdering Muscovites who later were butchered by Stalin.

He was an employe of the unofficial embassy established here in the twenties and a pioneer American Communist. You couldn't have asked for better authority on the secrets of the Moscow conspiracy against the United States.

Frequently at the mention of this or that bloody-handed old barbarian Dombrowsky would say "he was shot" or "Stalin shot him." On a night in Petrograd in 1920 after an attack had been beaten off, he sat with Gregory Zinoviev, and "Bill Shatov, in charge of the OGPU, brought in the names of 130 people who were to be executed, that night."

"Our friend, Zinoviev, with a squeaky, unpleasant voice, said: 'It is too much to read; is it all right to sign it?'" said Doctor Dombrowsky. "And he signed it and they were shot that night. So I had no anxiety when I heard that Joe (Stalin) shot him (Zinoviev)."

ROOSEVELT KNEW THIS was the quality of the people he was trusting when he resumed diplomatic relations with Russia in 1933. Yet he thought he, the country gentleman who never could earn his own living and laid an egg in promoting a vending machine, could outsmart Stalin.

Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 20 — Here is the first definite word on Garbo's motion picture plans, and extremely interesting. She has agreed to sign a contract with three countries to star in "Madame George Sand," written by Salka Viertel. In England either Laurence Olivier or Alexander Korda, or both, will share in the profits; in France, Pathe, and in the United States, Peter Cusick, with a 20th Century-Fox release.

Greta Garbo

George Cukor will direct her, and exteriors will be made in France and interiors in England in May. All three nations will participate equally in the profits. It is the first time, so far as I know, that a three-nation deal has ever been made for any star or picture.

Garbo is now in New York conferring with Cusick, who is with the State Department, and is just back from abroad where he made all the plans. The story of Sand, who was a contemporary of Chopin, Liszt and De Musset, will have the beautiful music of the composers of her day. Johnny Hyde of the Williams Morriss Company is credited with putting the deal over with Garbo.

"HAZARD," Paulette Goddard's picture, will not go before the cameras today. Seems Roy Chanslor, the author, was asked by the New York Paramount office to eliminate the character of Jerry, a lovable Negro schoolteacher. The New York office said it feared Lloyd Binford, chairman of the Memphis censor board, would not permit the picture to be shown

Chanslor refused to do a re-write job claiming that the character was too important to the story to be eliminated. Paulette is standing back of him. She said today:

"I think we all ought to refuse as long as our rights as American citizens are so imperiled."

I'm told that Henry Ginsberg put up a fight with New York but someone in New York is afraid of Binford. When I ask again is this industry going to stop this man from attempting to run our whole motion picture business?

NOT BAD for Sy Bartlett, who is right on the 20th Century-Fox lot, to receive $200,000 for "Twelve O'Clock High," his new novel. He and collaborator Beirne Leigh had offers from practically every other studio for this book, which is actually the life of Gen. Frank Armstrong. But when Darryl Zanuck read it he wanted it, so naturally Sy was delighted to sell it to his home studio.

There is only a background of war and it is a little like "Command Decision," which stars Paul Kelly on Broadway, and which has been called the "Journey's End" of this war.

JOAN CRAWFORD has her eye on Jeanne Eagels biography and would like to do it, provided Warners can buy it. So far, Casey Robinson hasn't been interested in selling, but if he can be persuaded to part with the Eagels story, it will be made with Joan. If Casey can't get a star for it, he probably will be glad to sell.

I wonder if the story will tell the real tragedy in Jeanne's life, and believe me, her life had much sadness, as well as the joy of fame.

THERE HAS BEEN so much gossip about Bob Walker—rumors that range all the way from his precarious health to his taking a job on the New York stage and leaving movies forever

The truth of the matter is that Bob is now in Ogden, Utah, visiting his father, who has been very ill. He will stay in Utah until his father's condition improves, and then he may go east.

Those who are close to Bob say his illness is as much mental unhappiness as anything else. What he would like to do is a stage play, but he's under contract to MGM and they may not give him permission.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Danielle Darrieux has kissed and made up with Actor Pierre Louis, the man for whom she divorced Porfirio Rubirosa. For a time she didn't see Louis because his mother refused to give her permission for their marriage, and forbade her son to see the French actress.

Rubirosa is being made an ambassador to the Argentine, and of course when he goes he will be accompanied by Doris Duke, his bride.

YOU think you've got troubles? You should be Vic Mature! Not only is 20th's glamor boy in dutch with the postal authorities and his neighbors, but Los Angeles city zoning authorities are giving him a headache over converting his garage into living quarters, saying it's against neighborhood restrictions.

But to get back to Vic versus the postman: Seems he has a police dog who hates humanity in general and postmen in particular. The vendetta got so hot the postman refused to deliver mail to Vic or anybody else on the block until the dog was fenced in. Vic built a six-foot wall, but after the animal jumped that, he had to add six feet more. And the postman still ain't ringing once—much less twice!

IRVING RAPPER and Jack Warner today parted company after 12 years' association. Rapper directed Bette Davis in "The Corn Is Green" and many other pictures.

The trouble came when he refused to accept Alexis Smith in "Christopher Blake," believing she was not right for the part. Rapper said that the parting was amicable and he goes with the best wishes of Warner. He will free lance.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD collected at random: Laraine Day and Leo Durocher will be remarried in the Mormon Church in Salt Lake City when Laraine's Los Angeles divorce becomes final.

Louise Albritton

Louise Albritton, who retired from the screen when she married Charles Collingwood, is coming back to pictures. Collingwood has taken a job with a radio station here.

Johnny Weissmuller is asking his wife to get a divorce in Reno instead of going through with the complaint already filed here.

The Larry Tibbetts and Lily Pons are expected at the Beverly Hills Hotel this coming week.

Ella Logan's entertainment and Don Loper's decorations brought a big crowd to the opening of Slapsy Maxie's. The Ronald Reagans, John Dall, Maureen O'Hara and Will Price were among those who wanted to see the old place glamorized and hear Ella.

Sergio de Carlo marries Marguerite Stansbury in December. She's a dead ringer for Lana Turner.

Rita Hayworth spent her 29th birthday Friday doing dance routines for "Carmen."

The Arthur Lakes entertain with a small dinner in honor of Rose Davies at the Fox and Hounds tonight.

Jose Dorelis was reported out here to see Dolly O'Brien, but it's really only rumor.

Annabella and her daughter are sailing on the De Grasse Nov. 4. They'll spend three or four days in New York and then come back to the coast.

The super-duper formal opening of the Racquet Club, in Palm Springs, is set for Nov. 1

My Boston

By Alan Frazer

ALL NAVY VETERANS are authorized by the Navy Department to wear dress blues next Monday, Navy Day. Except for those taking part in the celebrations, they probably will be able to resist the temptation, thank you . . . A "dog fight" over high prices and rent control is what Rep. John W. Vaughan of Belmont expects to see at the next session of the Legislature, where he begins his 12th year . . . Former Mayor Frederick W. Mansfield, after careful study, comes up with the opinion that the Legislature has amended-away all the powers of the Boston School Committee. Tsk-tsk. No power and no pay. Yet 16 candidates are gunning for those three school committee jobs . . . The young women whose beaux take them to the Bradford Roof are having their photos printed on match-pack covers.

NEW YORKERS still can't understand why Rabbi Joshua Loth Liebman, author of the best-selling "Peace of Mind," turned down the very attractive offer to head the nation's leading reformed congregation, in that city. The reason: he loves Boston . . . The other day we mentioned that taxicab operators will go to Atty. Gen. Barnes with complaints about the Sutcliffe company's airport limousine service. It can be added that the cabmen hired private detectives to pose as air-travelers and gather information while riding the limousines . . . Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and son Franklin, Jr., are expected in Boston on Nov. 8. The occasion is the first statewide convention of the Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) . . . Henry Wallace, anti-Truman New Dealer, has been here openly courting the "liberals." But David K. Niles of Boston, a New Deal leftover in the Truman White House family, is doing a more effective job behind the scenes of the local ADA movement.

BEFORE we continue: "Flu" has hit a down beat on both Tony and Sally De Marco, the dance team, and their opening at the Terrace Room has been postponed to Thursday . . . Court officers, elevator operators and janitors in the Suffolk County courthouse, Pemberton sq., have been solicited to aid the campaign of School Committeeman "Joe" White. They received cards asking whether they would hold house rallies, work at the polls or furnish automobiles on Election Day. . . Bostonians eventually will see the Navy's mysterious Flying Wing, a huge, batlike, jet-propelled and tailless. After five years, a test flight is soon to be made at Hawthorne, near Los Angeles . . . Maybe you aren't, but we are interested . . . During the war we visited the Northrop plant. The Army permitted inspection of its Black Widow, then a deep, dark secret. The Navy wouldn't allow even a naval intelligence officer to see the Flying Wing in the building next door.

EILEEN HECKART, formerly of the Cambridge Theater, and Ellen Fenwick, who played in summer stock at Plymouth, are in the cast of "Trial Honeymoon," opening tomorrow night at the Plymouth Theater . . . Hambla Bauer, the fiction writer, submitted a story to a Boston editor and was offered $2, later sold it for $2700. Two more Boston editors and a New York literary agent turned it down flatly . . . Five $8000-a-year department heads of the New England branch of the Veterans Administration, 5½ Tremont st., face possible replacement by disabled veterans, or by men with permanent civil service status who have been laid off by other Federal agencies. Hundreds of other temporary appointees are in the same fix . . . Three members of the McLean family found themselves covering police headquarters for three different Boston newspapers recently. They are Frank (American), his son, Joe (Traveler) and his brother, George (Globe).

WITH THE midnight closing rule in force, three o'clock on a Sunday morning finds intown Boston practically deserted. But there is one busy scene: outside St. James' Church . . . Harrison ave. and Kneeland st. are filled with automobiles . . . If you enter the church, you will see some 600 or 700 persons attending the Nightworkers' Mass. Founded in 1904 as the Printers' Mass in an improvised chapel at 249 Washington st., it was moved to St. James' in 1913 . . . A boon to newspapermen who want to "sleep right through" after they get home Also patronized by other hundreds, including young men and girls on their way home from parties. Many of the girls pin handkerchiefs on their heads to simulate the hats required by the church . . . After mass, dozens of taxicabs clog Harrison ave., all get fares . . . An island of activity in a sleeping city, the scene is a unique feature of Boston's night life.

TOURISTS are shocked because Faneuil Hall now is a market. It has always been a market . . . In death as in life Emile Coulon, Sr., greets visitors to the Hotel Vendome, through the medium of a very lifelike portrait . . . Those three Harvard men who parlayed a shoestring into the Sheraton chain of hotels now own locally the Copley-Plaza, Sheraton, Myles Standish and Beaconsfield (Brookline); 48 per cent of the Continental (Cambridge); and the Ames, Harbor, Park Sq., Sheraton and other buildings.

Washington Scene

By George Dixon

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20 — Thought inspired by the much-publicized literary offering of former State Sec. James F. Byrnes: It's astounding how much smarter public officials become after they quit office and turn to writing books.

The man can be a vaccilating incompetent while holding authority but the minute he finds himself with nothing more complex to contend with than the vagaries of a portable typewriter he finds the solution for everything.

It is an ever-recurring phenomenon that never ceases to baffle. Maybe we ought to turn the affairs of the world over to the book writers.

A PUBLIC RELATIONS expert now finds himself in the anomalous position of hiding in fear of his life from certain wayward members of the Washington press corps.

The ballyhoo man invited a carefully-selected group of correspondents on a junket to a manufacturing plant operated by one of his clients. After the brief tour of inspection he announced that he had a very large evening planned for "the boys."

"We're going from here to the country club," he leered. "There will be all the liquor you can drink. But here's the big payoff—there will be a beautiful woman for each of you."

The journalists couldn't wait to get to the festivities, but the press agent kept stalling. Finally he said it was time to go. The correspondents burst into the country club panting—to discover that the drumbeater had indeed gone to elaborate preparations in providing female companionship.

Seated around the festive board in the private dining room, giggling forebodingly, were the dolls who had been secretly rounded up for the occasion—the everloving wives of the journalists!

AFTER having got a look at the batch of advertising sloganeers imported by Charles Luckman to help popularize his citizens food committee, capital cut-ups have suggested that the slogan of the sloganeers should be:

"Nellie, head for the roundhouse; they can't catch you there."

A LOCAL GENIUS who tries to get by picking up odd public relations jobs, doing the best he can, conceived the idea that he might be able to cut himself in for a piece of the dough Luckman is spending for publicity.

But he is somewhat dubious now. He went over to the new headquarters of the eggless eggs and was interviewed by Mr. Luckman's head drumbeater. The applicant thought he was going to be asked a lot of high-minded questions but the first one profounded was:

"Do you have any imagination?"

FROM TIME TO TIME my esteemed friend, Mrs. Sarah Orr Williams, of Dublin, Ga., reports on the economic affairs of her community. She appears to be particularly inspired by the enterprise of a gentleman named Boone who publishes a small newspaper and also grows pears.

Mr. Boone conducts a column in his publication called "Boone Hill News" but pears have the strangest way of dominating it. This is his recent offering:

"Monday was pear day on Boone hill. Geo. Holder, from McIntyre, started us off before breakfast by buying a bushel. Mrs. John Smith got the next bushel, Mrs. John Todd quickly got a tub to hold her bushel.

"A. A. Cobb, of Gordon, would not mess along with one bushel, he took four. Next Truett Cannon, of Toomsboro, wanted two bushels and Willie C. Ramage ditto.

"We don't know how many more will be here before night. Am writing this at one o'clock p. m."

For heaven's sakes, Mr. Boone, don't leave us in suspense like this! Wire the final results, prepaid, with closing mutuel prices, as soon as possible.

Mother Leads Girl, 7, Into Lake; Both Drown

CONCORD, N. C., Oct. 20 (AP)—Coroner N. J. Mitchell said a woman apparently led her seven-year-old daughter into a lake near here and then drowned the girl and herself.

He identified the victims as Mrs. Ethel Linker, 31, of Kannapolis and Mary Ann Linker, 7. The bodies were found side by side in 15 feet of water. Mitchell said he did not consider an inquest necessary. Mrs. Linker had been in bad health and had talked of taking her own life, the coroner said.

Red-Held Priests Die in Captivity

PEIPING, Oct. 20 (INS)—Three Catholic priests of other than Chinese nationality who were kidnaped Aug. 30 by Chinese Communists were reported to have died while in captivity.

A total of five foreign-born Catholic priests were captured when the Chinese Reds sacked and burned the Trappist monastery at Yangchiaping, 70 miles northwest of Peiping.

Students at the monastery said that two remaining ones were not expected to live. Death was attributed to fatigue and starvation.

O'Dwyer Dedicates Memorial to Jews

NEW YORK, Oct. 20 (AP)—An estimated 15,000 persons stood in a misting rain during ceremonies dedicating a projected memorial to the 6,000,000 Jews reportedly slain under Nazi rule.

A cornerstone for the monument, to be constructed along Riverside Drive, was laid by Mayor William O'Dwyer, who said the memorial will be an "expression of the sorrow of America for the victims of the greatest tragedy in history."

Morning Coughs Often Due to Bronchial Asthma

Do you cough and cough, especially mornings and at night? At times do you feel like you were tearing yourself to pieces trying to get rid of strangling mucus and still you choke, gasp for breath, wheeze and often can't sleep? The cause of these devitalizing symptoms may be recurring attacks of Bronchial Asthma. In such cases, the very first dose of Mendaco, a physician's prescription, usually starts almost instantly to help relax that clogged up stuffy feeling in the bronchial tubes, then helps Nature loosen and remove thick, strangling phlegm. This helps you get good fresh air into your lungs and promotes restful sleep. Mendaco is not a smoke, injection or spray, but is a tasteless internal medicine which works thru the blood, thus reaching the bronchial tubes and lungs. Mendaco must satisfy in every way or your money back is guaranteed. Ask your druggist for Mendaco today, and take exactly as directed

"two strikes" against him—a demonstration of the free and "unprejudiced" workings of Democracy where there is doubt, the Germans get the benefit.

During yesterday's "check patrol" of rural police stations around Ulm, our jeep driver narrowly missed an erratic German chicken.

"Phew," he said. "Close! I paid for two of those last week." For every U. S. soldier who runs over a barnyard fowl or animal pays the full market price out of his army wages.

"Chickens are always innocent in this country," said the driver, sourly. A small thing, but indicative of the "bleeding heart" attitude of many, even most, of the AMG officials who literally run the U. S. zone—a well paid group of Americans who were lower case politicos and business misfits at home, but hotshots here, much fawned upon by the native boot-lickers. Replicas of the Civil War's carpet baggers, in reverse.

HOW "JUSTICE" WORKS OUT

Example! This is an authentic story. Recently one of the chaplains of the post was approached by a local German artist who wanted to ship three paintings to his sister in San Francisco. Would the padre kindly facilitate the expressage? He agreed. Time passed and no paintings appeared, until some months later, the artist wrote a bitter letter to the commandant, accusing the chaplain of diverting his "precious paintings" to personal use. The minister said he hadn't received any paintings. More time passed! Again the German wrote a scorching note, threatening legal action unless "restitution" at 1000 marks each was forthcoming.

The chaplain was dismayed. Rather than the embarrassment of being hauled before an AMG court with its pro-German democracy-in-reverse attitude, he glumly paid the German 3000 marks. (Total stolen: he never saw or received) and resigned from the Army. He's leaving at the end of October.

"Don't mistake," gloomed a high ranking U. S. officer who wore a rainbow of combat ribbons, "The Germans won the war."

He had just paid a stiff reparation price by AMG order for furniture the German owner claimed was missing from a house after the major had moved in. The officer said he never saw the stuff. The AMG ruled him "morally responsible."

Oh, well! Today a squadron of the 2nd regiment was midway through its 100-mile route march, in which officers and men slog along 18 miles a day on foot. Only the cooks ride. I went to their bivouac, some thirty miles overland, to a woods where they approximated combat conditions by pitching pup tents under shelter of the pines. It was a foot-blistering, shine-busting effort for mounted troopers—a hardening process decried by Frankfurt's brass.

SOME N. E. FIGHTERS

There was the usual mixture of green and seasoned troops, who took the ordeal with a wry good nature, mingled with the soldier's usual gripes. I went over the pine needle floor of the forest and found PFC Leonard J. O'Connor of 127 St. Andrew rd., East Boston, an earnest youth who plans to return to high school and aims at Harvard Law. And 1st Lt. Maurice C. Greene of 12 Mishawum rd., Woburn, an ex-88th divisionaire (Italy) out of Norwich U., who had just completed 46 miles of hiking. And S-Sgt. Adrian C. Alexander, RFD 1, Tunbridge, Vt., an old 4th Armor vet, whose dad, Henry, runs a dairy farm. And M-Sgt. Carleton B. Thistle of 6 Mt. Hood ter., Lynn, taking a little "sack-fatigue" (former pressman for Jackson & Phillips print shop).

And 1st Sgt. Frank W. Duffley of 302 Country Way, Scituate, a seasoned soldier, who fought from Normandy to Austria with the 4th Armor (25th Recon.) and 8 years ago turned his filling station over to brother Paul. And PFC James W. Smith of 5 Brook Hill dr., Worcester, an ex-Dartmouth junior pre-med, who was cooling his hot puppies in bed. And PFC Philip S. O'Dowd, Jr., 16 Cedar st., Lexington, motor pool clerk, who was an altar boy for Fr. McCarthy at St. Bridget's. And Pvt. Frank A. Berg of 1436 Blue Hill ave., Mattapan, whose mother sent him a fruit cake for his birthday on Aug. 30.

And Pvt. Daniel W. Tyler, RFD box 59, West Lubec, Me., who hears from mother, Alice, twice a week, and plans to study engineering later. And Pvt. Roland Berlinguette of 187 Central st., Manchester, ex-cobbler for Kearns Shoe store, whose dad, Dollard, used to be a circus acrobat. And Pfc Roy W. Turner of Forest ave., Ft. Fairfield, Me., an M-8 armored-car gunner, whose brother, Ray F., recently returned from Pacific service.

Also Pvt. Carleton D. Davenport of Hudson, Me., whose father, Horace, runs the town general store, and who wants to go to art school after this hitch. And lastly, Sgt. Leonard A. Rogers of 97 Lincoln st., Hartford, a keen-eyed radio repairman, who is going to make a profession of it.

Tonight I sit in a ledge just outside the caserne gates, across the hall from the quarters of Lt. George S. Patton, Jr., son of the illustrious father who lies et rnally in Luxembourg cemetery. As yet I have not seen the youth freshly graduated from West Point. But he plows a rough furrow under the curious scrutiny of his fellow officers. It's a heavy burden in the army to be the son of a distinguished soldier.

As I write, dogs of all types are yapping at the moon, shrill, tenor and basso barks. For every officer and non-com a pooch of some kind. They're as numerous as the constabulary and twice as noisy.

Klein New Head Of Jewish Vets

ST. PAUL, Oct. 20 (INS)—Julius Klein, Chicago industrial public relations consultant, was elected national commander of the Jewish War Veterans of the United States. He succeeds Milton H. Richman.

Klein gained an early lead in the formal roll call balloting, and his only opponent, J. J. Holtz, Boston attorney, conceded the election when Klein's majority topped the 300 mark.

The 2500 delegates to the convention then recorded a unanimous vote for Klein, a veteran of both world wars.

42 Girl Kidnap

which could have been made by bullets.

Two motorists headed for Boston found Russell Davis in the automobile soaked with his own blood. They were John Hora of Patterson way, South Boston, and Rene Theriauet, Dexter ave., Watertown.

The two men noticed the car's occupant was slumped with his head on the back of the front seat. Thinking he was ill, they stopped and went to him.

When they saw the blood they drove to the home of Frederick Robicheau, farther along in Lowell st. and told him a man had been shot in an automobile.

BELIEVE SUSPECT WILL LIVE

It was Robicheau who telephoned police and led them to the stark finale of the night.

Davis was moved to the hospital while state detectives, fingerprint men, an official photographers and Dr. Walter E. Jetter, state pathologist, were at the murder scene.

Surgeons at the Symmes-Arlington Hospital said late this afternoon that blood transfusions and the fact that the bullets passed through Davis instead of imbedding in him were factors which may save his life. They reported he was not on the danger list.

In view of the fact that Mrs. Richard's abductor took her over the State line into New Hampshire, it was expected the FBI would enter the case.

According to police, the following was the girl's story of the harrowing night:

"At 7:30 Sunday night, Edward (Pare) called for me at my home in Central st. and drove me and my girl friend (Mrs. Ann Blanchard Willette, with whom Mrs. Richards lives), to her mother's home. Then the three of us went to George's Spa in Pawtucketville and stayed there almost to closing time.

"We dropped Ann at home and drove directly to the place in Donahue rd. to park. I had known Edward about seven months.

"We'd been there only a few minutes when a man opened the door on the driver's side and with a long, doublebarrel shotgun in his hand, said, 'Give me your wallet.' With that, Edward got out of the car and when he had a chance he grappled with the man. I got out. They were still fighting and wrestling.

"The shotgun was lying on the ground. I picked it up by the barrel and swung it at the head of the man but I think I hit Edward instead. They still kept on wrestling and punching and I saw the shine of a knife in the man's hand as he raised it over his head.

"The next minute I looked down and saw Edward on the ground, in the road, covered with blood.

MADE HER DISROBE

"Then the man went to the front of the car and smashed both headlights with his bare fists. Next he grabbed me roughly by the arm and dragged me to his car.

"He made me get in the car and started driving for New Hampshire, but after four or five miles, I guess, he stopped and told me to take off my clothes. I said, 'Please don't make me do that.' He said, 'Look, you'd better take them off or I'll have to cut them off.'

"Rather than be killed, I took them off and he also took his clothes off and proceeded to attack me in the car. All the time he had the shotgun handy and kept threatening what he'd do to me.

"About half an hour later, he drove off. Afterward, up a road, he put on only his trousers, but he stopped several times and attacked me each time.

"While he was driving in between, I saw signs that read Nashua, Manchester, Pelham and Canobie Lake.

"I had started to call him Jimmie and did so a few times but he said to call him Russell.

"We headed back to Lowell and came in over the Moody st. bridge down by the depot in Lowell, around the circle and down Appleton st. by the old post office and it was just 5 minutes past 5 in the morning by the post office clock.

"He then drove me to my house at Central and Walnut sts. and said, 'I suppose you're going to call the police as soon as you get inside.'

"I told him I hadn't any phone. I backed up on the sidewalk and got a good look at the registration and kept it in my head until I jotted it down as soon as I went into the house. Then I called the police.

"He gave me a $5 bill when I got out of the car with only my dress on and my stockings falling down over my shoes. During the ride he kept saying, 'The fool. He should have given me that wallet. He was a sucker not to give me that wallet.'

"At one time between those attacks, he asked me to shoot Him, but I said I couldn't do it."

STORY OF ATTACKS

Mrs. Ann Willette of Central st., Lowell, with whom Mrs. Richards lives, said:

"Marion came in screaming just a few minutes before 5 o'clock this morning. Her dress was ripped to shreds, her stockings were down and her hair was disarranged. She was hysterical. She was clutching a $5 bill.

"I had been asleep. I was with her and Mr. Pares for a while last night. We had gone to a Moody st. restaurant and then to a Dracut cafe, where we had a few beers. Mr. Pares had driven me home, then he and Marion drove off again. I think it was about 11 o'clock."

Then Mrs. Richards slumped into a chair in a near-faint and sobbed:

"I thought I would never get away from him. He told me, 'Get in the house and keep your mouth shut about this or I'll be back to get you.'"

Mrs. Richards is the daughter of Mrs. Helen Collins, an employe of the Lowell General Hospital and the estranged wife of S-Sgt Graham Richards, a veteran who re-enlisted and is now in Italy. They have a 13-month-old daughter and a son, 5, both of whom are boarded out.

Rev. J. J. McEleney's Mother Dies at 84

Petrillo Disc Ban Called Disaster

CHICAGO, Oct. 20 (AP)—James C. Petrillo's newest edict, banning again the making of recordings by his 225,000 AFL musicians after Dec. 31, was described as the mould of disaster for some segments of the radio and recording industries.

One disc jockey for a Chicago radio station said that eventually the directive will mean oblivion for the many recording programs presided over by some 2500 masters of ceremony.

With new recordings shut off, he said, "the public will be so sick and tired of hearing the records on our shelves, we'll have to fold up."

Band Leader Ted Weems expressed belief the order might "boomerang on musicians of this country and result in popular favorites being replaced by foreigners," and in California a spokesman for a recording company suggested the making of master records might be done in Mexico.

Serve Sour Milk Doughnuts At Your Halloween Party

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

SINCE SHORTENINGS are now readily available, this should be a rewarding year for doughnut lovers. Whether rolled in sugar or glamorously iced with confectioners' sugar icing, these fall treats have a way of being "at home" either for meals or in-between-meal snacks.

Frosty with sugar, these sour milk doughnuts are the perfect Halloween party refreshment. Handsome in their autumn brown suits, they make a friendly accompaniment for glasses of sweet cider and big bowls of buttered popcorn.

Almost every good cook likes to bake with sour milk. It gives doughnuts a special flavor, at the same time that it makes them tender and delicate. Not to be ignored also is the part doughnuts play in good nutrition. Combined with milk, eggs and sugar, enriched flour does its part by contributing the B-vitamins, iron and protein necessary to a well-balanced diet.

SOUR MILK DOUGHNUTS

4½ cups sifted enriched flour
1½ tsp. cream of tartar
1½ tsp. soda — 3 eggs
½ tsp. salt — 1 cup sugar
½ tsp. nutmeg
3 tbsp. shortening, melted
1 cup buttermilk or sour milk

Sift together flour, soda, cream of tartar, salt and nutmeg. Beat eggs until thick and lemon colored. Add sugar, beating it in. Add shortening and sour milk or buttermilk. Add flour mixture. Roll out ¼ inch thick. Cut with doughnut cutter. Fry in deep hot fat (375 deg. F.). Makes about 3 dozen doughnuts.

Here is a modern version of the old-fashioned yeast-leavened doughnuts:

RAISED DOUGHNUTS

¼ cup lukewarm water
2 cakes yeast — ½ cup sugar
1 cup milk — 2 tsp. salt
1 tsp. grated lemon rind, if desired — 2 eggs, beaten
½ cup melted shortening
5 cups sifted enriched flour (about)
½ tsp. nutmeg — Fat for frying

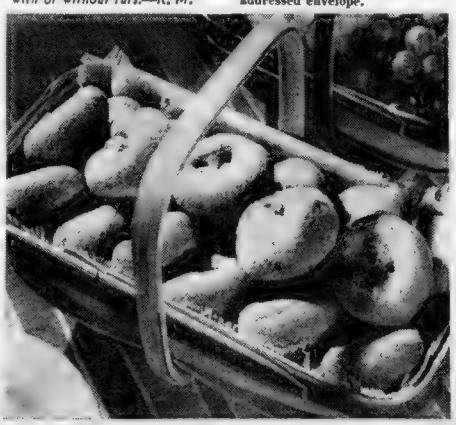
Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Scald milk. Add sugar and salt. Cool to lukewarm. Add 2 cups flour and nutmeg. Mix well. Add softened yeast, eggs and lemon rind. Beat well. Add shortening. Mix well. Add more flour to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead until satiny. Place in greased bowl, cover and let rise until doubled. Punch down. Let rest 10 minutes. Roll out ½-inch thick and cut with doughnut cutter for plain doughnuts.

For twists, roll small portions of dough under the hand and twist the dough back on itself. For Bismarcks, roll the dough ½-inch thick and cut into pieces 1 inch wide and 3 inches long or cut with biscuit cutter. Let rise until doubled and fry in deep fat (375 deg. F.) 3 minutes on each side. When cool, roll plain doughnuts and twists in granulated sugar, ice Bismarcks with confectioners' icing and sprinkle the rounds with confectioners' sugar. Makes about 3 dozen doughnuts.

To give a new touch, make doughnuts in different shapes. They need not always be round. The rolled out dough can be cut with a plain biscuit cutter to make little round puffs, or cut criss-cross with a sharp knife to make squares or diamonds, or fancy-shaped cookie cutters.

For decoration, doughnuts may be rolled in sugar or lightly iced. If iced, they can be decorated with colored candies, raisins, or currants. One frosty-looking way to decorate them for dessert is to brush them first with a thin icing and then dip them in cocoanut. The "holes" left from regular doughnuts make fascinating coffee companions. For a change, roll them in sugar to which a dash of cinnamon has been added. They make a delightful extra for the after-school Halloween party and noon lunch, too.

WINTER PRINT and fashion smart is this costume silhouette of dark red, beige and black printed crepe by Jennifer for the Harold Sussman collection. Although the skirt is straight in front . . . it flares out in back (we wish you could see more of it) below the black velvet bow of the short jacket. The small neck-hugging collar and slim-trim cuffs are also of black velvet. All in all the afternoon dress is a neat package with or without furs.—R. M.



SOUR MILK DOUGHNUTS

New Milk Aids for Beauty

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

WHAT THE MEN in your life mean when they say "natural" is just that they don't want your makeup to look obvious. They'd feel awfully blue if their heart-beats went around minus makeup . . . everybody would look faded.

And when we say . . . drop that mask, lady, we see you . . . it's no use trying to cover up any more . . . what we mean is that this year, for the coveted, fresh "new look," your skin must be clear, forthright, untroubled . . . so that make-up CAN give you a natural, luminous, fresh sort of beauty.

TIME-SAVER PACKAGE

A nifty, little time-saver package contains three essentials for skin beautification . . . a special cleansing cream made with 18 per cent fresh dairy milk that also contains anhydrous lanolin and fine skin-softening oils . . . a toner made with 10 per cent fresh dairy milk, pasteurized (no wonder it refreshes the skin) that makes the skin on your face and throat sit up and take notice . . . and, finally, a milk-based emulsion that's really something out of this world. That's because it is so light and fluffy. And because it disappears almost as soon as you smooth it on your skin . . . it can also be used as a foundation for that mat-finish, well-groomed facial appearance. For over-night skin softening . . . it also does the trick.

Of course these are only minia-tures of full-sized cosmetics. But they have been expertly combined for an effective stream-lining in skin care . . . based on intelligence rather than on hoodwinking concealment.

These preparations can replace a whole shelf of costly jars and boxes . . . and "liberate" the skin, too. When you cleanse, stimulate and lubricate the skin . . . you've given it the necessary daily essentials it requires for a healthy, beautiful look.

ALL NON-GREASY

These are the first cosmetics ever to be made with milk. Milk contains all sorts of minerals, including calcium and phosphorous, also albumin and lactose . . . and it is rich in butterfat. These natural elements are all in milk . . . and milk combined with vegetable oils makes a perfect formula that cleans, smooths and softens the skin.

Of course, one of the delightful things about milk as a cosmetic is that it is non-greasy. Hence milk-based cosmetics . . . such as these scientifically developed miniatures contained in a time-saver package . . . are adept for either the dry or oily skin. Every skin can profit by a milk cosmetic diet.

For the name of this time-saver package of milk-based cosmetics for a peaches-and-cream-looking complexion, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, any day except Sunday, or write to me, care of the Boston American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

WHEN A GIRL'S face and figure are femininely beautiful . . . and her hair is long and her voice has that deep-throated quality . . . how can she help being singled out as alluring? Lovely Columbia star Lizabeth Scott has more than her share, facially speaking, for our purpose of illustration.

Sees Boy Friend Too Often

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I am 18 years old and I met a boy of 19 that I like very much. He is also fond of me. I am with him three or four nights a week and my parents object to that very much and we often quarrel about it. They think that he will tire of me if we are together so much. I am in by 10:30 every night except Friday and Saturday.

I love my parents a great deal and I want to do as they say, but I don't want to lose the friendship of this boy because of not going out with him. Please tell me if I should stop seeing him so much or what I should do.

"TROUBLED."

Dear "Troubled":

It seems to me that there may be something to your parents' objections to your concentrating so hard on this boy. I don't think it is likely it is the boy himself they have any objection to. They probably think—and so do I—that it is unwise for you, at your age, to devote yourself so exclusively to one young man.

I don't see any reason why you should have to stop seeing this boy, but I do suggest that you work out some sort of compromise by which you do not see him quite so often.

Good Detailing Adds Much to Dress

By EILEEN CALLAHAN

THEY SAY that anyone can write—it's only a matter of selecting the right letters from the alphabet and putting them in the right order. But the fact is that some people are able to choose and arrange in such a way that they get Pulitzer prizes while others get rejection slips.

It's the same way with detailing on a dress. Anyone can add a bit of fringe here and a spray of sequins there, but it takes a top-flight designer to apply just the right touch in just the right place. The type of detailing must not only suit the costume on which it is used, it must clarify its mood. In its perfect usage it does more; it becomes an intrinsic part of the dress, shaping as well as decorating it.

Sally Milgrim, who designed the black sheer wool dress sketched today, uses a curved hip yoke and shoulder yoke of shell tucking to give shape to the dress. The double-breasted bodice has rolled revers, the skirt is full and flared.

"I wuz thinkin'...."

by Izzy Ort

Today is no day of levity; it is a day devoted to sacred things. Therefore, the writer abandons his usual style and purpose to render proper respect to this day. The last of the heroes of the recent war are returning home at long last. No gaily bedecked harbor piers will flutter with colorful welcomes; no bands will sing out tempi to match the rhythmic waves. They are coming home, poor handfuls of gray ashes, to the mourning keen of the funeral march to find their rest beneath the warm soil of their native land. We'd almost forgotten them. Few but their closest relatives and friends burned the candle of memory for these once bright-eyed, brave young men. They were a part of the horrid picture of war we desired to erase from our memories. They are back with us; not to live with us actively but their presence has a special significance beyond what it means to those who miss them the most. They were our greatest sacrifice! Our money means little in comparison; the products of our great mills and factories mean even less. Their lives were the heaviest price we paid for a peace that has not yet come into the hearts and minds of the men of the world. They are reminding us there must be no more war. They are reminding us that unless we forge for ourselves a destiny of peace, they themselves will mock with bitter words the fates into which they were forced. Let's never forget this or them! Advt.

Strauss Conducts To Get Rent Money

LONDON, Oct. 20 (AP) — The London Philharmonic played its best last night for Composer Richard Strauss, who doesn't pretend to be a masterful conductor, but who needs money for his rent.

The 83-year-old Bavarian conducted at the Albert Hall in his first professional appearance here since before the war. He did little more than beat the time, to all outward appearances, but critics said the orchestra played superbly.

Strauss came here several weeks ago to try to unfreeze some of his royalties, which are held by the custodian of alien properties.

Sir Thomas Beecham, the conductor, arranged a kind of Strauss season, with last night's concert the first in a series. The old man rehearsed the Philharmonic for six hours straight Demonstrations will be held tonight from 6 to 9 o'clock under direction of the Boston Election Commission, and will continue each night through Saturday.

New Symphony by Cowell on Program

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, under direction of Serge Koussevitzky, will give the third pair of concerts of the longer series in Symphony Hall Friday afternoon and Saturday evening, and the opening concert of the Sunday afternoon series next Sunday at 3:30.

Dr. Koussevitzky announces for the Friday and Saturday pair, the first performance of a new symphony by Henry Cowell. It is the fourth by this composer and is entitled "Short Symphony." The finale introduces a hymn and "fuguing tune" of the sort which Mr. Cowell, delving into the early American psalmody, has used in a number of his works.

Arthur Honegger's Symphony for Strings, which was introduced to these concerts by Mr. Munch last season, will be repeated by Dr. Koussevitzky. An artist new to America, Ginette Neveu of Paris, will appear on this program in the violin concerto of Brahms.

Mlle. Neveu's Boston appearance will be her first in North America. A pupil of Carl Flesch, she has since the war toured Europe and played with the orchestras of Vienna and Prague. She has just completed a tour of South and Latin America.

The program for Sunday will include Mendelssohn's "Italian" symphony, Howard Hanson's serenade for flute, harp and strings, Ravel's suite "Mother Goose," and the "Fifth Symphony" by Beethoven.

Bradford and Council To Meet in Gloucester

Gov. Bradford and his Executive Council will hold their weekly meeting Wednesday at the State Pier in Gloucester and, after an inspection there, will go to Salem courthouse to swear in newly appointed state officials.

By JACK CONWAY

The night harness track at Foxboro tossed away all of its red ink when it established new highs for pari-mutuel betting each night last week. The Saturday night handle was $126,000 which was the tops for the week. Paul Bowser says that with good weather it is likely Foxboro will do $200,000 some night before the meeting closes.

"Roosevelt Raceway in New York was in operation for two years before it did $50,000 for a night," said Bowser. "It now handles close to $1,000,000 on good nights."

Foxboro has been helped in business by the new track, according to Earl Sullivan, chairman of the board of selectmen.

"All stores show an increase in business, while the track has furnished jobs for many men who were unemployed," said Sullivan. "When the trotters came to Foxboro, the voters were 3 to 2 for the sport. From my checkup I would say the town now is 7 to 1 for the trotters under the lights."

Sullivan is happy the way things turned out as he was for the night trotting track from the opening kickoff.

"There are 300 owners of trotters in Massachusetts," said Bowser, "and now that we have our own track I look for more people to buy trotters so they can see them race at Foxboro. E. M. Loew is already talking about buying a stable of standard bred horses."

Foxboro had a few poor nights when it was cold. At the time Russ Murray gave a copy of his early Raynham handles to Bowser, and they showed that the handle dropped as low as $18,000 on one occasion. On closing night of this year's dog racing at Raynham the handle topped $300,000.

"We had dog racing in Bristol County at Dighton before Raynham opened, but we still had to establish ourselves," Murray told Bowser. "It will be necessary to educate people about harness horse racing."

The $126,000 handle on Saturday night indicates that people learn very rapidly when the subject is gambling on the races.

Harvard and Holy Cross Failed to Thrill Crowd

Apart from Chip Gannon's touchdown pass for the Crimson, the Harvard-Holy Cross game failed to thrill. It was a dull, uninteresting contest. Neither team would have equalled Boston College's brilliant showing against LSU.

There is already talk that Boston College will be signed to meet LSU in a return contest at the Orange Bowl. It would be a fine attraction, and would result in many persons from Boston and New England journeying to the Magic City to see if the Eagles could catch up on the one point margin by which they lost in the game here.

LSU was one of the finest looking football teams to show here this season. It was fast, flashy and its execution of plays was perfect. It was fortunate for LSU it got off to an early lead partly due to BC mistakes. Otherwise it would have been beaten by the second half drive of the Eagles.

BC has ample power and a variety of plays which always make it dangerous. Denny Myers' club has proved it is particularly effective in the second half of a football game.

Off the weekend games one would have to rate BC over Harvard and Holy Cross.

Runyon Fund Expected to Get $4500 Tonight

Sam Silverman says the Callahan A. C. looks for a $30,000 gate at its all-star card at the Garden tonight which would give the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund $4500. Sam may be a bit high on his figures, but it is almost a certainty that the four star bouts will do at least $28,000. There is a $23,000 expense for boxers, Garden rental and other overhead and the gate will have to hit $30,000 to give the Callahan Club any profit for its services.

Each of the four bouts on the program would be good enough for a main event. Tommy Sullivan hopes to punch his way to victory over Mad Anthony Jones, while the latter promises revenge for the kayo the South Boston citizen pinned on him at Braves Field over a year ago.

Jackie Weber of Pawtucket and Joey Angelo of Providence will step 12 rounds in a bout for the New England lightweight title which has Rhode Island all steamed up. Gus Mell against Patsy Barndino and Buddy Hayes with Pat Brady complete one of the best all-star offerings ever made here.

Lincoln Downs Opens Charity Racing Week

With 115 days of racing this year, the Lincoln Downs management was eager to have Rhode Island charities participate in its profits. Most tracks have done little for charity this year in view of the fact Uncle Sam no longer gives tax waivers for charity racing. It is necessary for the tracks to take their contributions to charities out of their own treasuries once the amount is more than 5 per cent of the net profit. Race tracks liked it better when they gave away Uncle Sam's money.

H. C. Defeat Galls Alumni

By BILL GRIMES

It was a gloomy week-end for Yale, Boston College, Vanderbilt, Auburn, Maryland, William & Mary and Marquette. They were expelled from the unbeaten untied group.

And, now, one week before mid-season, Michigan, Notre Dame, Virginia, Pennsylvania, California, Texas, Georgia Tech, U. C. L. A., Penn State, Baylor, Wake Forest, Southern Methodist, West Virginia and three New England small colleges, Trinity, New Hampshire and Wesleyan are the only elevens with unblemished records.

The New England fan gave the Harvard and Dartmouth victories top billing. The Crimson proved too smart for Holy Cross and the Big Green came from behind to nip Brown 13 to 10.

It's difficult to explain just what really did happen over in the Harvard Stadium. On paper, and in the opinion of the experts, who really know football, Holy Cross was rated two or three touchdowns better than the Crimson.

Man for man, the Crusaders are better, bigger, more plentiful and more experienced.

Howie Houston and Emil Dvaric are the only Harvard linemen with enough ability to be serious contenders for a regular berth on the Holy Cross eleven. And, with the exception of Ken O'Donnell and "Chip" Gannon, Harvard didn't have a back available Saturday, who could get the nod over a half dozen Crusader ball carriers.

True, Jim Noonan, Paul Lazzazo and Hal Moffie turned in grand performances, but Dick Harlow wouldn't hesitate for a moment to trade that trio for Bobby Sullivan or Veto Kissell.

The Holy Cross disappointment is understandable. The alumni and undergraduates were confident of victory. They appreciate the ability of squad's personnel. So, it wasn't wishful thinking on their part. Instead, their judgment was sound. So, now they're asking "How come? What goes on?"

Any attempt to resort to the mid-summer weather as an alibi will not jell, unless the propagandists can prove that the Harvard side of the scrimmage line was air conditioned.

The only plausible explanation of the Stadium upset is that an inferior Harvard squad outsmarted the Holy Cross Crusaders.

Like Dick Harlow, Tuss McLaughry is entitled to great credit for bringing Dartmouth back after their terrible shellacking by the Pennsylvania powerhouse.

The Big Green spotted Brown 10 points in the first half. But, in the third period, Hal Fitkin, an 18-year-old sophomore from Toledo, O., raced 43 yards for a touchdown, which put the Indians back in the ball game. Then, with two minutes remaining to be played, in the final quarter, the Big Green marched 80 yards for another touchdown, Hal Fitkin scoring again, this time only 11 seconds before the final whistle.

Although it was a heart breaker for the Brunonians, the Dartmouth win will be a great tonic for the McLaughrymen, who clash with Dick Harlow's Crimson next Saturday in the Stadium.

Tied by Indiana and swamped by California, the Wisconsin Badgers weren't figured to knock the Yale out of the undefeated and untied bracket. But, they beat the Blue on the line.

The Purdue Boilermakers should be ashamed of themselves for the matter in which they turned it on the B. U. Terriers. The criticism belongs to Coach Stu Holcombe, who must have acquired the "killer instinct" while he was coaching at West Point. And B. U. isn't falling for that hokum about using all of his substitutes. The only way to hold a score down is to keep the regulars in action. They'll stall. The subs, who are looking for recognition, bear down.

A quick run-down of the New England colleges shows Trinity beat Hobart, New Hampshire slipped one over on Springfield and Wesleyan walked through Hobart to remain at the 1,000 mark. Tufts and Northeastern were on their short end of their games with Rochester and Bates, respectively, with Amherst, Bowdoin, Maine, Vermont and Coast Guard the other winners.

GOOD FOR 15—Ray Poole, Giant end, takes pass from Jim Blumenstock for 15-yard gain in game with Yanks. But Yanks won, 14-0.

Cards Defeat, Yanks Win Tighten Race

NEW YORK, Oct. 20 (AP)—There isn't an unbeaten team in the major professional football leagues today, and the races in both the National and All-America Conference are taking shape as down-to-the-wire affairs.

The Chicago Cardinals became the last eleven in either circuit to taste defeat by bowing, 27-7 to the Rams before a National League record crowd of 69,631 fans in Los Angeles.

In addition to suffering their initial setback, the defeat dropped the Cards into a three-way tie with the Rams and Green Bay Packers for the lead in the National's western division pennant chase. The Packers turned back the Washington Redskins, 27-10, in Green Bay.

Meanwhile, the Pittsburgh Steelers vaulted to the fore in the National's eastern half chase by a half game as a result of their 35-24 decision over the Philadelphia Eagles. The Eagles and Redskins are now deadlocked for second place.

In the junior circuit the defending champion Cleveland Browns snapped their tie with the idle San Francisco 49ers for the western half lead with a 31-28 win over the hapless Chicago Rockets.

New York Yankees and Buffalo Bills, who along with Brooklyn and San Francisco were not scheduled, are tied for the eastern lead. In the only other game in the A. A. C., the Los Angeles Dons came from behind and walloped the Baltimore Colts, 38-10.

Two former Columbia University stars, Sid Luckman and Paul Governali, led the Chicago Bears and the Boston Yanks to 33-24 and 14-0 victories over the Detroit Lions and the New York Giants, respectively, in the remaining National League games.

Luckman delighted a crowd of 36,105 at Chicago by pitching three touchdown passes and completing 18 out of 26 tosses for 340 yards to lead the defending champion Bears to their second win in four starts.

Governali, who succeeded Luckman at Columbia, threw both of the Yanks' six-ponit passes before 37,144 spectators at New York's Polo Grounds. The win was the Yanks' first in four starts. They tied the Giants in their Boston opener, 7-7.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20 Passin' Paul Governali fired two touchdown strikes through the Polo Grounds mist to hang a stunning 14-0 upset on the heavily favored New York Giants here before 37,144 cash customers.

The triumph marked the first time the Yanks had ever beaten the Giants in four years of league competition and it enabled them to vacate the N. F. L. cellar in favor of last year's defending Eastern champions.

The game was only seven minutes old and the Giants were having a field day pushing the Yanks all over the park. Suddenly, the former Columbia great faded back from his own 22 and whipped a clothesline pass to Don Currivan who out-faked his defender and grabbed it on the Giants' 46. Here Don faked once again forcing the safety to stop momentarily - that's all Don needed.

Leahy Picks 27 Winners Against Seven Defeats

Frank Leahy

By FRANK LEAHY
Head Coach, Notre Dame University

Like cards ruffled by a master magician, the aces of the college gridiron deck keep sliding to the top. Saturday's clamorous children, if we may coin a phrase, saw Texas, Michigan, Georgia Tech, Pennsylvania, California and Army make showdown hands of their contests.

Other teams like Virginia, Mississippi State, Penn State and my own lads at Notre Dame kept moving along the unbeaten trail. But it was Blair Cherry's Texas Longhorns who made it the hard way.

Forced to the ground by rain that nullified their great Bobby Layne, the Longhorns buried Arkansas, 21-6, in Memphis mud for their fifth straight victory. At present moment no eleven has greater claim to the national title. Next Saturday the Longhorns face Rice and the Owls should be doubly dangerous because of their 14-0 upset defeat by Southern Methodist.

A couple of outfits not exactly considered Frankensteins by their neighbors back home did themselves proud Saturday. Wisconsin jolted unbeaten Yale, 9-0, and Purdue crushed Boston University, 62-7. The boys could be right in saying that football strength has moved West, with a dissenting vote from the deep South of course.

In smacking Northwestern, 49-21, for a total of 222 points against their opponents' 34 this season, Michigan may have been enjoying the pleasant interlude that deceives before a storm. Saturday, Nov. 1, they face Illinois.

The fighting Illini really pulled a ferocious canine out of the bag when they crushed Minnesota, 40-13. At least we had one part of the score right in advance. We had picked the Gophers to win by a 13-7 margin.

Anyway, here's a good spot to say we picked 27 winners Saturday against seven losses and one tie for a season's total of 93 wins, 34 losses and seven ties. Could be worse.

California is another team that fared well with a 21-6 triumph over Washington State. Next Saturday, however, Lynn Waldorf and his resurgent Golden Bears must face Southern California which whipped Oregon State, 48-6. According to reports from the Coast, the Trojans are explosively loaded.

Army's display of offensive power, in passing its thirty-second game without defeat with a 40-0 victory over V. P. I. was expected. We have predicted all along that Red Blaik's team this year may overall be as strong as last season and that the Cadets would face us on Nov. 8, undefeated.

And now that Navy, with its impressive 38-19 win over Cornell, has displayed real offensive power in finally getting back on the winning side of the ledger, we have another worry. We meet them in Cleveland on Nov. 1.

Harvard's comeback victory over Holy Cross, 7-0, after its crushing defeat by Virginia, showed fine spirit on the part of Dick Harlow's lads.

In beating Nebraska, 31-0, we suffered a bitter loss when fullback Johnny Panelli dislocated his elbow. We did show definite improvement, however.

Frank Leahy's next football analysis will appear in Wednesday's Boston Evening American.

Garden's Runyon Charity Show Has Strong Appeal

By JACK CONWAY, JR.

The New England boxing industry will hit a high spot at the Boston Garden tonight when eight talented boxers compete in 42 rounds of boxing before a crowd which will pay over $27,000. The boxing show tonight is proof that if the customers are offered good attractions they will reward by patronage. Fifteen per cent of the proceeds of the bouts will be directed to the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund.

The feature is the 12-round New England lightweight title fight between Joey Angelo, Providence challenger, and Jackie Weber, Pawtucket champion. Then there is the Tommy Sullivan-Mad Anthony Jones light-heavyweight clash.

The other two fights rate just as highly. Patsy Brandino, Hamilton, Ont., will meet Gus Mell, Montreal, N. E. featherweight titlist "Buddy" Hayes, South End, meets Dennis "Pat" Brady, Hartford. The last three fights mentioned are 10-rounders.

Weber had won 27 consecutive fights until last August. That was the time that he met Joey Angelo for the first time. Joey shocked one of Providence's packed houses to win the very close decision. There was a demonstration in the streets after this one. Tonight's Weber-Angelo fight is for the title so Joey will be trying very hard to duplicate his last triumph which was a non-title affair.

Tommy Sullivan met Anthony Jones at Braves Field 14 months ago and knocked him out in the eighth. Jones was winning the fight until the sixth round, according to our score card.

Sullivan, strong barrel chested thumper that he is, rallied in the 7th with a fine flare and hit jones with close to 35 consecutive punches (we tried to count them) before the bell sounded. Jones looked glassy eyed and was unable to come out for the 8th round. He is a fine competitor and will make South Boston's Tommy go the limit.

Then there is that Mell-Brandino bout. Gus Mell came to Boston during the later stages of the war. His clean-cut features and boyish attitude in the ring made him a favorite over night. He moved from four round bouts to main events in the course of a month.

During that campaign the 18-year-older made about $35,000. He went back to Canada and spent most of it on new clothes and other luxuries.

He was older last year when he met Brandino twice in Boston. They each won a decision. Tonight is the rubber match. If tonight's Mell—Brandino fight is half as good as the first one the customers will go home happy.

Timothy "Buddy" Hayes is the N. E. featherweight champ. He is not nearly as colorful as his challenger "Pat" Brady. Hayes is a better finished boxer but Brady has the color the crowd loves. Brady could win this fight on body punching and determination alone.

State Gets $39,516 Daily From' Rock'

CONCORD, N. H., Oct. 20 (AP)—The first 12 days of the fall racing meet at Rockingham Park race track have netted the state of New Hampshire $474,155 on a total of $8,281,393 parimutuel handle, the State Racing Commission reported today.

The amount wagered represents a 15 per cent decline from the corresponding 12-day period last year and a 13 per cent decrease in the state's share.

Feller Outpitched By Old Satchelfoot

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 20 (AP)—Before a crowd of 12,160, Bob Feller's All-Star baseball team edged the Kansas City Royals, crack Negro nine, 2-1, at Wrigley Field.

Feller was outpitched by the Royals' perennial Satchelfoot Paige. Each worked five innings, but Feller gave up one run, while Paige held the All-Stars scoreless during his time.

PENSAVALLE THROUGH

Long Drouth Causes Closing Of Woodlands for Hunting

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

Due to one of the most devastating drouths in three decades, the upland hunting season did not commence as scheduled today, for all woodlands in Massachusetts are closed by order of Gov. Robert Bradford. Following on the heels of Maine, New Hampshire, and Vermont, the move was wise and most necessary. Our forests are veritable tinder boxes at present, drier than this writer has ever seen them. During the past two weeks, we've tramped through sections of timber, where the leaves were ankle-deep. One spark would have caused a major conflagration.

Gunning for pheasants, quail, gray squirrels, hares, and rabbits would have been legal today, save for the hot hand of an Indian summer. However, days lost at this end will be added on to the seasons when the ban is lifted. At least two days of heavy rains will be needed to remove the danger . . . Scoter ducks may be still shot in open waters beyond outer harbor limits.

ANGLES ON ANGLERS: Although it's not generally known, James Murphy, the Cambridge detective sergeant, who won second prize, a new car, in the recent Martha's Vineyard Striper Derby, with a 37-pound, 15-ounce bass, has always been lucky . . . "I create a furore everywhere I go," he told us, grinning. "Yep, the first time I ever played golf, I made a hole-in-one. Whenever I buy lottery tickets, I usually win and so it goes!"

Murphy's striper was beached with a borrowed rod, the second time he had gone fishing! He was offered two thousand dollars for the rights to his prize, but refused this sum, gambling that he'd "be in the money" . . . During the war, this sportsman served with the 138th Combat Engineers, and received five Battle Stars, the Purple Heart, in addition to memories of five months as a Prisoner of War in Germany. He expects "to win next year's Derby."

We talked with "Coot" Hall at the Vineyard, the famous Cuttyhunk guide stating that a recent flurry of big "bull" bass had hit his vicinity. This chap really knows the "hot spots" . . . Skipper Joe Eldridge, of Buzzards Bay, is now en route to Nova Scotia, where he will pick up a new fishing cruiser. Charley Sherer, of the Red Top Bait Shop, is accompanying Joe, the pair planning to enjoy a bit of hunting in the wilds.

FISHING LINES: Orin Arlin, coastal warden, sends word from Ipswich, that striped bass are still hitting from the mouth of the Merrimac, south along the ocean front to Lower Circle, Newbury.

B. C. Expects Ed Clasby Back for Friday's Rugged Tilt With Villanova

Facing their second tough opponent in as many weeks, the Boston College Eagles have a stiff week of practice sessions facing them in preparation for their engagement with Villanova College under the lights at Braves Field Friday night. The game will be the last of four arc light engagements on the B. C. nine-game slate.

Sporting only minor bruises after their rugged set-to against the Tigers, the Eagles should be bolstered by the return of center Bob Chouinard, fullback "Butch" Songin and quarterback Ed Clasby for their coming engagement with the Wildcats.

Chouinard could have made the difference between victory and defeat. Second string to big Ed Kennedy, Chouinard, a rugged 200-pounder from Newburyport, is a standout on defense. He's one of the best Eagles on pass defense and backs up the line very effectively. Kennedy is a capable ball player but as yet hasn't the stamina to go the full 60 minutes. He's only 19 years old, stands 6-6, and weighs 245 pounds.

Myers had to replace him with a fullback when he needed a rest and, as a result, the stout BC forward wall wasn't at top strength. Sidelined with an infection as a result of bad teeth, Chouinard should be ready to swing back into action against Villanova.

Ernie "Horse" Stautner, BC's leading candidate for All-America honors in the next few seasons, won special words of praise from the Southerners. A stubwark on defense, Stautner played himself out against LSU.

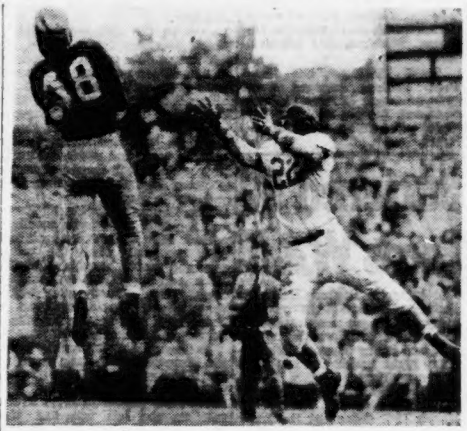
He's a rugged gent, this 215-pound sophomore from East Greenbush, N. Y. Standing 6-1, Stautner's as broad as a house with powerful arms and shoulders.

He lives on a farm and got his rugged physique from chopping down trees. A chemistry major, he does as well with the textbooks as he does against rival linemen.

Stautner was a standout in the service, playing a bang-up game for the El Toro Marines. One of his service buddies who played with him is another B. C. regular, guard Dom Papaleo from Cambridge.

Henry Miller and Lee Top So. End Card

Lightweights Henry Miller, Roxbury, and Jerry Lee, Cambridge, have entered the amateur boxing program to be held at Mechanics Building next Wednesday night by the South End A. C.



ON THE BALL . . . Weisenberger (48), Michigan, intercepts pass intended for Aschenbrenner (22) of Northwestern. Undefeated Michigan won 49-21.

Purdue Next For Illinois

CHICAGO, Oct. 20 (AP)—Michigan and Illinois, steaming along unbeaten toward their climactic Big Nine meeting two weeks hence, will have to keep their pressure up to avoid an upset Saturday.

After crushing Northwestern, 40-21, to total 222 points in four victories, speedy Michigan faces Minnesota at Ann Arbor in the tradition-steeped Little Brown Jug series, a rivalry which has produced tremendous upsets in the past.

Illinois, after flattening the Gophers, 40-13, goes against Purdue's rapidly improving outfit at Lafayette, Ind.

Of the two games, Illinois may bump into the more harrowing experience, since the Boilermakers, under their new coach, Stu Holcomb, created some excitement in the East by lacing Boston University, 62-7.

EXTRA! GATORS WIN

ATLANTA, Oct. 20 (AP)—Saturday's football produced the usual upsets but the surprise outcome involving Southeastern Conference elevens was the Florida Gators' 7-6 decision over powerful North Carolina State. The Gators had lost so often—13 times hand running for a new league record—it began to appear that they couldn't win.

Texas, SMU, Baylor Top Southwest Conference

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 20 (AP)—The Southwest Conference hits the halfway mark this week, boasting three undefeated, untied teams for a situation almost unique in its 32-year history.

Texas, Southern Methodist and Baylor had been figured only as possible contenders for the championship, certainly not to reach this stage undefeated.

Two Conference and three intersectional games are not expected to alter the status of the big three—though Baylor even yet is considered an added attraction to the impending struggle between Texas and Southern Methodist University for the championship.

Texas—which racked up its fifth straight victory in downing Arkansas 21-6—sends its peppery T formation against the down and nearly out Rice Owls Saturday at Austin. A 14-0 defeat by Southern Methodist chilled preseason favorite Rice's hopes against the Longhorns.

Baylor, after its fifth win, takes on woebegone Texas A&M at College Station in the only other Conference game.

Southern Methodist guides its Doak Walker special against the University of Southern California at Los Angeles on the Pacific Coast. Texas Christian plays Oklahoma at Norman, Okla., and Arkansas meets Missippi at Memphis, Tenn., to round out the schedule.

'Honey' Russell Starts Celtics' Loop Campaign

By SAM BROGNA

Professional basketball creeps back into the limelight tonight at the Arena gym where Coach John "Honey" Russell gathers his Boston Celtics squad of 25 candidates and starts building his second machine that will again represent the Hub in the Basketball Ass'n of America this winter.

Three weeks of rigid training is on Honey's agenda and during the fourth week his club will play four exhibition games with the Providence Steamrollers on a tour of New England prior to their league opener at Baltimore, Thursday night, Nov. 13.

Included among the 25 men reporting tonight are seven holdovers from last year's freshman team that finished in a fifth place tie in the Eastern Division with the Toronto Huskies. The other candidates are either collegians or veterans acquired from other clubs in the circuit.

With the new material to build from this year, Honey feels confident he can field a winner.

Holdovers are Art Spector Dutch Garfinkel, Charlie Hoefer, Johnny and Connie Simmons and Virgil Vaughn. No word has been received as yet from Al Brightman who recently underwent a shoulder operation on the West Coast.

None of these players is certain of a job according to Russell. They will be tried along with the newcomers for a chance to be one of the 10 men retained. According to one of the rule changes, only 10 players can be carried by each club. Last year, it was 12.

Veterans from other clubs include big Ed Sadowski, Mel Riebe and Ben Scharnus from Cleveland; Brooms Abramovic and Stan Noszka, Pittsburgh; Ace Maughn, Detroit; Cecil Hankins, St. Louis and Harry Miller, Toronto.

The recruits from the college campus who are seeking a break into the pro circuit are Eddie Ehlers, Purdue; Rip Childs, Cornell; Saul Mariaschin, Harvard; Paul Kenneth, Rhode Island State; Hank Biaetti, Long Island U.; Gene Stump, Northwestern; Jack Hewson, Temple, and Red Klotz, Philadelphia Sphas.

Lytell Battles Youvella Here

Dom Youvella, young Italian-American battler from Poughkeepsie, N. Y., seeks to force himself in the middleweight muddle in taking on Bert Lytell, fourth ranking fighter of that weight from Fresno, Cal., in the feature bout of 10 rounds, in Mechanics Building, Boston, on the Dempsey A. A. program, tomorrow night.

Youvella's latest wins are over Coolidge Miller, Eddie Steele, Joe Agosta, Freddie Flores and Freddie Graham.

SPORTS MIRROR

TODAY A YEAR AGO—Cleveland Browns defeated Los Angeles Dons, 31-1's in All-America Conference game at Cleveland before 71,134, largest pro football crowd on record.

THREE YEARS AGO—Dr. Forrest Allen, Kansas U. coach, demanded ban on gambling and asked for college sports czar.

FIVE YEARS AGO—Second college football poll of season ranked Ohio State, Georgia, Alabama, Michigan and Illinois in that order.

TEN YEARS AGO—Cleveland Indians engaged Oscar Vitt, manager of Newark International League club, as new Tribe pilot under two-year contract.

Battered BU Faces W&M

A battered Boston University eleven returned to Nickerson Field today, and began preparations for their coming battle with the William and Mary Braves this Saturday night under the arc lights at Fenway Park.

The game will be no setup for the Terriers, despite William and Mary's 13-7 defeat at the hands of North Carolina over the weekend, the Braves are considered to have one of the better southern teams.

Coach McCray's club is greatly improved over his 1946 team, however the Williamsburg eleven is confronted with the most strenuous schedule ever to be arranged for a William and Mary squad.

Built upon a foundation of 21 returning lettermen, the Indian outfit is augmented by six additional lettermen who earned their monograms during the war years, and have returned to school this fall. The remainder of the team is composed of approximately 25 frosh.

Bob Steckroth and Ralph Sazio, left end and tackle respectively, have been elected to lead the Tribe on the field as co-captains.

Steckroth proved himself to be one of the most able ends in the Southern Conference last season, and the 24-year-old flankman, playing his final year of collegiate football, is one of the key men in the Brave offense.

Ralph Sazio is a 215-pounder who is a big and powerful tackle. Sazio had a brilliant record last season. At the conclusion of the campaign he was named to the second string All-Southern Conference eleven.

"Buff" Donelli's only solace in Saturday's upheaval was the play of Irv Heller . . . "He was the only lineman who stood up," declared the Terrier mentor . . . George Boston was not seriously injured, but the BU board of strategy decided not to waste him in a hopeless cause . . . The BU rooters are all mystified by the poor play of Don Giles this season . . . Donelli promised that next week's game would be quite different.

Humid Conditions Spoil Bruins' 3-1 Win Opener

By BILL GRIMES

"I'm glad that one's over," declared Coach "Dit" Clapper last night, after the Bruins had opened the 1947-48 NHL season with a 3 to 1 victory over the New York Rangers.

Due to the mid-summer heat, which prevailed in the Garden, it was impossible to get a real line on any of the new Bruins. It must have been suffocating on the ice. After rushes, of even half the length of the ice, the players were gasping for breath. Even the fans, who had nothing to do but sit back and watch the contest, were in bad shape and many of them departed long before the end of the game.

The Bruins beat "Chuck" Rayner for two goals in the opening period. Milt Schmidt was credited with a goal when the puck caromed off Frankie Eddol's stick and went into the Ranger cage. Then, shortly after halftime, Clare Martin scored on a three man attack with Don Gallinger and Pete Babando.

In the middle stanza, while Bernie Flaman was serving a penalty, Bill Moe raced the length of the ice. When he hit the Bruins' defense Moe passed to Bryan Hextall on the left wing and the Ranger winger beat Frank Brimsek with a high shot.

Don Gallinger scored the clincher in the third period with "Moe" Henderson and Billy Taylor getting assists.

The Bruins came up with a new wrinkle last night. Before they donned their armor, they put on their skates, went out into the arena and skated one lap. Upon their return to the dressing room, the players reported to Coach "Dit" Clapper that the ice was not only soft but thin.

To the best of my memory last night was the first time that fog has risen from Garden ice. In the old Arena, it was not uncommon for games to be stopped while the skating instructors went around towing large blankets to break up the fog.

And, it was also the first time that a shirtsleeved crowd watched a hockey game. The heat was sweltering. It must have been 80 in the Garden. It was so hot that the fans felt like they were going to pass out of the picture.

So, you can well imagine what a beating the players took. Time and again, they were practically out on their feet. Many of them just managed to reach the bench when replacements were sent in. The Bruins were so exhausted that they did little rejoicing after the game. They appreciated the win but they didn't have the strength to express their elation.

Bob Murphy, the Garden superintendent, was more burned up on the ice than the players. But, there was nothing he did about it. The Shriners' Circus didn't get out of the building until midnight Saturday. The brine was turned on two hours before the final show but it couldn't be lowered enough to offset the midsummer temperature.

Early in the first period, Bill Judza, the Ranger defenseman, deflected a flying puck with his forehead and retired to the first aid room to be sewed up by Dr. Thomas A. Kelley.

Didn't see General Manager Art Ross in the Bruins' dressing room before or after the game.

The Bruins are scheduled to practice today and tomorrow at the Boston Skating Club. Don't believe today's workout will be a thriller. It will take a couple of days for the Rossmen to recover from last night's battle with the heat.

George Gravelle, Herbie Gallagher and Sammy Babcock handled the game and the only penalties handed out by "Gravel Gertie" went to Clare Martin, "Moe" Henderson and Fernie Flamon.

Both Frankie Brimsek and "Chuck" Rayner turned in fine goal tending performances. "Brimmy" made 23 saves to "Chuck's" 20. Due to the fog the playing conditions were particularly rough on the goalies.

The three stars went to Brimsek, Milt Schmidt and Clare Martin. But, Eddie Harrison, Billy Taylor and Jack Crawford showed to advantage.

There was a 32 minute intermission between the second and third periods. The delay was due to the fact that all of the skates had been stripped and had to be re-sharpened.

Late in the second period, Pat Egan and Neil Colville started a rhubarb but the melee was broken up before any damage was done. It couldn't have looked good to Referee Gravelle for the belligerents were allowed to remain in the game.

Although he was a late arrival, Johnny Pesky, the Red Sox shortstop, made the game. He denied emphatically that Mrs. Pesky made him wipe the dinner dishes before she would permit him to go to the Garden.

Eddie Casey Helps Coach Easton Eleven

The former All-America football player when with Percy Haughton's Harvard teams in 1919 will be on the Easton bench next Thursday night when the Huskies again play at Raynham. Eddie will act in an advisory capacity to Connie Spillane, the regular Easton coach.

Survivors Arrive—While hundreds of friends and relatives of survivors and ship's crew stand on the pier, the U. S. Coast Guard Cutter Bibb arrives at Constitution Wharf with 69 passengers of the downed Bermuda Sky Queen aboard. A tremendous welcome greeted the ship as it moved up the harbor to its dock.

Rewards Rescuer—Mrs. Mary Last, 61, of Los Angeles, kisses the cheek of smiling BM 1-c Ralph Keller, member of the Bibb's crew, who rescued her from the turbulent sea after she had been swept off life raft during transfer from the downed flying boat, Bermuda Sky Queen, to the Coast Guard cutter. "I'll never forget him, he saved my life," she told reporters.
